High Command Reports 'Another Destructive Battle Under Way' South of Kiev.

BULLETIN

BERLIN — (U.P.) — The official German news agency reported today that Russian tank forces have started a heavy attack on the central front.

(By Associated Press)

Russian armies defending the Smolensk gateway to Moscow reported the slaughter of four German divisions (about 60,000 men) today and Soviet military dispatches declared that Nazi advance forces were retreating with heavy losses under Red counter-attacks.

"From isolated defense blows, the Red army is going into consecutive counter blows which are hurling back the impudent enemy," said Pravdo, the Communist party newspaper.

German reports said Nazi infantry moving up to the advance fighting lines in the Smolensk salient had freed swift Panzer columns for a new break toward Moscow.

On the southern front, Adolf Hitler's high command said that "another destructive battle is under way" about 150 miles south of Kiev, capital of the Russian Ukraine, and that Nazi speed troops had knifed deep into retreating Red army columns.

The German high command asserted that Soviet divisions trapped east of Smolensk, on the central front, were "being further hemmed in."

A Russian communique said that bayonet - charging Red troops killed hundreds of Germans of the 137th Nazi infan-

Gas Ruling Seen Aid to Half Million

Chairman Says Customers Aided; Company Head Hits Mandate.

BULLETIN

COLUMBUS —(INS)— The Ohio Fuel Gas company today filed a protest with the state utilities commission against a commission ruling ordering the company to stop mixing manufactured gas with natural gas. The company also asked that the cattle case be re-heard. The order will be impossible for the company to carry out, the petition stated.

While George McConnaughey, chairman of the state utilities commission, predicted today that the commission's new order against mixed gas would benefit half a million customers in Ohio, an executive of the Ohio Fuel Gas company, which serves the Mansfield area, asserted that the mandate would result in "questionable service" to gas users.

W. C. Mead, Mansfield district manager of the Ohio Fuel Gas company, said he had received no instructions from company headquarters regarding the commission's ban, but he added that he didn't think it will affect this area.

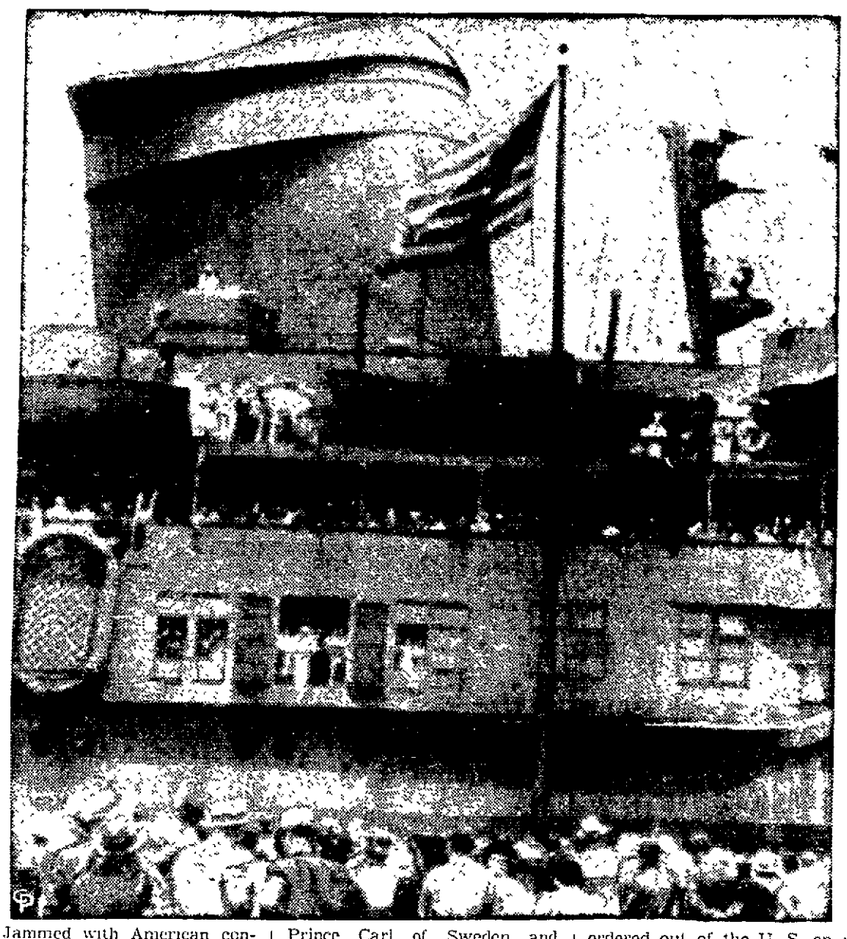
C. I. Weaver, president of the Ohio Fuel Gas company, said compliance with the Aug. 14 deadline set by the commission would entail "perfectly enormous cost with questionable service to the customer. If the company should attempt to comply strictly with the order concerning stabilization, it would encounter an impractical if not impossible situation," he commented.

"The order takes exception to the particular method which the company has found practical and most economical," he continued. "This method of providing uniform gas supply was investigated and approved by the engineers of the public utilities commission in 1938."

In a statement to the Associated Press, McConnaughey of the utilities commission asserted that the BTU (British thermal unit) of a natural gas is decreased by the introduction of inert gases which merely swell the volume and are not combustible. Hence, when gas has been stabilized in this manner, it is necessary to burn more of it."

He added that "diluting of natural gas is a vicious, unauthorized practice" and has been held illegal by the state supreme court. "The utilities commission would be derelict in its duty if it did not order the practice stopped for the protection of the public."

Ousted U. S. Consular Officials Arrive Home



Jammed with American consular and diplomatic officials expelled from Axis countries, 19 ambulance drivers who survived the sinking of the Zamzam, Prince Carl of Sweden and others, the naval transport West Point arrives back in New York. The ship, once the luxury liner America, carried Axis attaches ordered out of the U. S. on its eastern trip to Lisbon. The picture above was taken as the ship docked and friends and relatives waved happy greetings.

BAN ON SILK STARTS BUYING RUSH IN CITY

Stores Report Women Flock To Counters to Buy Hosiery In Dozen Pair Lots.

SPURT TO CONTINUE

Government Order, Effective At Midnight, Holds Stocks For Military Use.

Mansfield women were started on what is expected to be the city's greatest silk stocking buying spree in its history today as the result of a government order that the use of silk for civilian items be abandoned in favor of manufacture of parachutes and silk powder bags for the army and navy.

The order is effective at midnight tonight.

Several of the city's leading stores said the spree had already started and that it was expected to continue for the next three or four weeks.

Stocking sales spurted as women bought one to three dozen pairs of hose each. Store managers were certain that their supply would be exhausted soon but felt that substitutes would handle the stocking demand.

Defense officials in Washington, however, admitted they were unable to give women an answer to the problem of what they will substitute for silk hosiery when the present supply is exhausted.

In case women do not conserve their supply of hosiery, they will in all probability have to go barelegged.

A canvass of Mansfield stores this morning revealed that although many women were buying more hosiery than usual that a much greater rush is expected.

"Wait until they realize the order is serious," said one of the managers. "It will look like a bargain day rush."

Managers said that they had received letters from hosiery firms warning them of the imminent shortage in silk because of the growing tension in American-Japanese relations.

The silk order was issued by the Office of Production Management's priorities division and will be effective at midnight tonight. The request came after the Army and Navy advised that their minimum requirements for silk during the next two years would equal stocks now on hand in this country.

Say Only Spark Needed to Set Off 'Explosion'

Nippon Reacts Angrily to Roosevelt Ban On Aviation Fuel; Act Called 'Showdown' for Japan; Crisis In Thailand Expected In Month.

(By Associated Press)

Japan defied American-British economic pressure today, after President Roosevelt's embargo on aviation fuel to Japan, and her minister of commerce, Vice-Admiral Seizo Sakonji, declared bluntly that the situation was "so tense a single spark would be sufficient to cause an explosion."

Simultaneously, foreign military circles in Shanghai, which predicted Japan's current move into French Indo-China, said they expected a crisis in Thailand within a month.

Japanese troops were reported massed in Cambodia, near the Thailand frontier, and Japanese planes were poised within two hours' flying time of Bangkok, the Thai capital.

Usually reliable Japanese sources in Shanghai said Tokyo had tentatively approached Thailand already with the object of welding that country into Japan's so-called "co-prosperity sphere."

This further supported a statement by authoritative quarters in London yesterday that Japan had demanded military bases in Thailand, within 400 miles striking distance of Singapore, and control of the country's rubber, rice and tin production.

Commerce Minister Sakonji said "the economic situation confronting Japan demands an increase in industrial production for the replenishment of national defense and to maintain the standard of defense."

Commenting on the American oil embargo, Domei said that Japanese aviation now could dispense with the United States supply by using vegetable oils and reclaiming lubricants.

Japan added India to the list of countries whose assets in Japan have been frozen in retaliation for similar action started by the United States, Britain and Canada against Japan.

Watching sources of supply closely, the Tokyo government urged the Japanese empire to cut down where possible on food consumption, but told the empire they never would face famine.

In Tokyo, the Japan Times and Advertiser, organ of the Japanese foreign office, said flatly that British and United States moves to cut off Japan from vital supplies of oil, tin and rubber would only speed her program to win economic self-sufficiency in the south Orient.

Requests Solicitor to Draft Anti-Noise Bill

City Councilman George C. Kyle requested City Solicitor Marion D. Ward, jr., to draw up an ordinance legislating against unnecessary horn blowing and other noises. Kyle said he had asked Ward to have the ordinance ready for presentation to city council next Tuesday evening.

Outstanding feature of the law will be a provision, copied from the successful New York City and Memphis laws, making it necessary to apply brakes and be in the process of slowing automobiles before horns may be blown. Kyle said he believed this provision would guarantee that the driver was blowing only in necessity and not to blast his way through traffic.

Loud exhausts would also be illegal under the proposed ordinance, Kyle said, as would unnecessary noises around hospitals, schools, courthouse and other public institutions.

Answering the claim that horns must be blown in passing according to state law, Kyle said the new ordinance in no way would conflict with state law and that provision for passing drivers would be made.

Kyle said he expects little opposition to the bill in council.

"The public has taken anti-horn blowing drives to its heart," he asserted, "and a councilman would be standing against the will of the people to oppose legislation to stop unnecessary noises. No council member can afford to make such a stand."

"Drivers will enjoy much safer and more comfortable driving for themselves if they hold to the 'Three Cs' of driving: Caution, Courtesy, and Common sense," Kyle continued, "and Mansfielders are showing more and more desire every day to drive that way. This anti-horn blowing campaign is just one sign of it."

U. S. Says Attitude to Depend On French Aid to Axis.

WASHINGTON—(AP)—The United States served notice today that its attitude toward the French government at Vichy would be governed hereafter by the "effectiveness with which France defends it territories against the Axis powers' aggression."

In a statement assailing French "collaboration" with the Axis powers, the acting secretary of state, Sumner Welles, declared that France's failure to resist Japanese aggression in French Indo-China menaced American security.

"The French government at Vichy," Welles said, "has given repeated assurances to the government of the United States that it would not co-operate with the Axis powers beyond the obligations imposed on it by the armistice and that it would defend the territory under its control against any aggressive action on the part of third powers."

MINERS ORDERED BACK TO WORK

Union Calls Back Workers After Settlement of Labor Dispute.

CLEVELAND—(AP)—Seven hundred fifty Athens county coal miners, idle since the first of the week because they failed to get $20 vacation allowances with regular pay checks, were ordered today to return to work.

John Owens, Ohio district president of the United Mine Workers of America, said coal operators had agreed after conferences to pay the allowances, which are provided for in the UMW contract.

Owens said miners in other sections of the state had threatened to quit if they were not granted the vacation money, but that the operators' decision to pay had averted further stoppage of work.

FALL FATAL

WOOSTER — (INS)—Mrs. Elizabeth Tinsler, 54, was dead today, her neck broken when she fell from a hay rake being pulled by a tractor on her farm north of Marshallville. Mrs. Tinsler was working in the harvest field because of the scarcity of farm help.

PROTEST GROUP PLANS ELECTION

Farmers Will Set Up Permanent Organization Monday To Fight Wheat Quotas.

Richland county farmers who are opposing the AAA wheat marketing restrictions will rally at 8 p. m. Monday in the Madison high school auditorium to set up a county-wide organization, officers of the temporary organization said today.

Russell T. Kiko of Canton, recently elected chairman of a state-wide group of farmers protesting the 49-cent penalty on excess wheat, is scheduled to speak at the Monday night meeting. The session will be open to the public.

Officers of a permanent organization to be known as the Richland County Protective association will be elected at the meeting.

Albert Ammeter, South Main street road, was elected temporary chairman at the group's first meeting nearly three weeks ago. An advisory committee was set up then.

While Ohio farmers continued their fight against the government marketing restrictions today, 500 visiting farmers from several western states urged the protesting farmers to drop their campaign to invalidate the wheat control act, a dispatch from Dayton said.

Henry D Parkinson of Scott, Kans., one of the largest wheat growers in the visiting group, said, "Farmers need an orderly marketing system such as has proven successful in business for 50 years. The government," he added, "is attempting through parity methods to put us an even keel with big business. In order to do that we've got to adopt proven practices."

Hitler Orders Female Labor Service Increased.

BERLIN—(INS)—Chancellor Hitler decreed more work for German women to buttress the nation's war effort today and called an extra 20,000 women to duty.

The chancellor decreed a six-months extension of work for women serving in the compulsory labor service organization. About 130,000 women now enrolled in the service are affected.

In addition, Hitler ordered the total strength of the female labor ervice increased to 150,000 women.

The extended service will be performed in government and defense force offices, hospitals and social institutions for destitute families with many children.

ARSENAL JOBS AT STANDSTILL

Building Delayed at Ravenna And Sandusky Sites as Result of 'Holiday.'

(By Associated Press)

SANDUSKY — Work holidays by AFL unions delayed construction today at two giant Ohio arsenals — the $32,000,000 Plum Brook ordnance works and the $35,000,000 Ravenna ordnance plant.

At Plum Brook, outside Sandusky, 600 AFL carpenters refrained from work today to enforce demands for a 25-cent increase in their $1.12½ hourly wage. Twelve hundred other AFL craftsmen, such as electrical workers and plumbers, took a holiday in protest against reduction of the rate for overtime pay. Captain Frank Ray, construction quartermaster, said the 1,200 were not at work pending official confirmation from Washington that the rate for work over 40 hours had been cut from double time to time-and-a-half. The time-and-a-half rate for defense work was agreed upon at a recent conference of AFL internationals' officials.

Meanwhile several hundred skilled workers failed to report at the Ravenna arsenal, in protest against reduction of the overtime rate. Electricians and painters came back to work today, a survey indicated, but plasterers, plumbers, bricklayers, cement finishers, carpenters, and iron workers did not.

COLUMBUS —(U.P.)— The steel workers organizing committee (CIO) is planning a "sympathy" strike at the main plants of the Timken Roller Bearing company at Canton, O., to enforce demands of the SWOC which is on strike at Timken's Columbus plant, it was reported here today.

'BOSS' LOSES

G. O. P. Leader Sentenced, In Numbers Tax Evasion.

PHILADELPHIA —(INS)— Enoch L. (Nucky) Johnson, Republican boss of Atlantic City, today was denied admission to bail pending hearing on his appeal from the 10-year jail sentence and $20,000 fine imposed on him for income tax evasion.

Johnson, who was convicted of failing to pay taxes on money admittedly received from the Shore resort's numbers racket, lost his fight for at least temporary freedom under bond in the U. S. circuit court of appeals in Philadelphia.

The 58-year-old Atlantic county, N. J., treasurer, was found guilty by a federal district court jury in Camden, N. J., a week ago Friday and was sentenced in Camden yesterday by Circuit Judge Albert B. Maris.

Judge Maris also refused the plea of "Nucky's" lawyers for admission of the defendant to bail.

MT. GILEAD — (INS) — Three youths, one wounded, were held today in connection with an attempted theft of gasoline from the farm of Elmer McClaskey, west of Cardington.

Later, Charles Shaw, 20, was arrested when he visited a Cardington physician for treatment of minor shotgun wounds.

Clarence Shenenour, 19, and Ray Sconck, 23, subsequently were taken into custody.

President Leaves Sunday on Week's Vacation Cruise

WASHINGTON —(INS)— President Roosevelt will leave Washington Sunday for the submarine base at New London, Conn., where he will board the White House yacht Potomac and begin a vacation in north costal waters.

Presidential Secretary Stephen T. Early, in announcing the president's plans, said that because of the delicacy of the international situation the cruise would be conducted on a 24-hour basis. The special train equipment will be kept intact and standing by in event the chief executive is suddenly summoned back to Washington.

"From the time the president boards the Potomac until he returns, the movement of the ship will be a confidential naval operation," said Early, "and it is particularly requested that the press, radio and other media for dissemination of information so regard the movements of the Potomac."

Auditor Ordered to Pay Dir Or Show Cause for Refusal

John Dir, former city water department employe whose job has been the subject of a lengthy dispute among city officials, was granted a common pleas court mandamus today to force City auditor Paul L. Kelley to pay him $84.50 in back wages or show cause by Aug. 29 why Dir had not been paid.

Dismissed with eight other city employes last spring because he was past 70 years of age, Dir later was re-instated by Mayor William J. Locke after the employe withdrew from the public employes' pension fund. Dir held the job after re-instatement until June 1. None of the other dismissed workers was re-employed.

City Solicitor M. D. Ward, jr., and Auditor Kelley contended that Dir was re-employed illegally and was not entitled to draw his pay during the period of re-instatement, or from May 8 to June 1.

Dir said in his mandamus action that he asked Ward to bring an action to force the city to pay him for the period he worked and filed the suit after Ward refused. Dir was represented by Atty. H. H. Schettler, former city solicitor.

Judge C. H. Huston granted the alternative mandamus writ following a brief preliminary hearing on the petition.

Kelley said today he would consult City Solicitor Ward before deciding on his action in carrying out the writ issued by the court. Kelley contended that there was no reason for hiring Dir back and not re-employing the other workers.

Push Drive for Big Vote on 18-Month Army Service Bill

WASHINGTON—Senators who advocate extending the training period of soldiers worked today to roll up an impresive vote of approval in the senate next week on legislation making the army's rank and file liable for 18 months extra service when their present active duty period expires.

Confident the opposition could muster no more than 30 of the chamber's 96 votes, sponsors strove to whittle this still further. Several said privately they wanted a substantial senate majority for the effect it might have on the house.

While Senator Thomas (D-Utah) said concessions had been made in the hope of winning over some doubtful senators, opponents made it plain they were not satisfied by an administration compromise move.

Backed by a bi-partisan majority committee, leaders proposed yesterday an amendment which would permit selectees, national guardsmen and reserves to be kept in uniform 2½ years, instead of the present limit of one year. If congress, however, decided that the national defense required longer service, the president could extend the additional service indefinitely.

Men who enlisted for three years could be retained for a total service of 4½ years. As previously drawn the bill would have retained all army personnel in service indefinitely or until congress terminated the act.

Sen. Taft (R-Ohio), one of the leaders of the opposition group, said the new proposal was not acceptable to him.

GEN. JOHNSON:

By GEN. HUGH S. JOHNSON

WASHINGTON—Superficially it seems grotesquely ridiculous to talk about rationing down to as low as five gallons of gas a week the eastern part of a nation with such an abundance of petroleum that most of its wells are pinched in to a fraction of their potential production. The answer is of course: "Oh there is plenty of gas. Our trouble is that we can't transport it from the mid-continent fields to the eastern points of use." The reason why we can't transport it is that we have taken away 50 ocean-going oil tank ships from their private owners to give to Great Britain and expect to take away 100 more.

O. K., if that is necessary and a fair and just balance of burdens between our own people and those of another nation. But who says that the balance of burdens is fair, just and necessary? How does he arrive at that decision? In arriving at it, who speaks for the American people?

I don't know the answers to those questions, but with at least a reasonable contact with what is going on, the mere fact that I don't know is excuse enough to write this column of queries.

We seem to have taken the lid off the public treasury and the great American storehouse and workshop in unlimited generosity first to Britain and now, it would appear, to Russia. We haven't yet felt much pinch ourselves but, boy, we are going to feel it! Still we say "O. K. if necessary and the pinch is equal all around but there remain a good many Americans from Missouri whose motto is still 'show me.'"

We have practically said to Great Britain and are about to say to Russia: "We will send you whatever you ask for and you don't have to pay a cent for it. The American people will pay." Not to criticize these nations at all but just to be a little realistic in our own behalf, in such circumstances, what would restrain them from asking without stint or limit—what would restrain any nation?

Is there any "no" or "lets see about that" department in our government and, if so, where is it? The man in charge of this handout part of our effort is Mr. Harry Hopkins, a sort of modern Rasputin in the palace, who is the greatest spender of public funds with the least regard for public debt and tax-payers' interests that ever appeared in the whole history of mankind. After a second visit to London, where the canny Britons took him over just as completely as grant took Richmond and "Dear Winston" began writing friends here about "Dear Harry," Mr. Hopkins has winged his way to Moscow to see what he can spend there. That's all right too, in principle, but there would be more confidence if our "lease-lend" ambassador was some guy who had ever exhibited a faint suspicion that there really is a bottom to even the biggest bag of public treasure, or that American tax-payers also have to feed their own families.

The president has said that the ex-WPA master-spender is only a "book-keeper" in his present job as "lease-lend" administrator. If he is, he is a new and very convenient kind of bookkeeper—one who doesn't know that there is a debit side to every ledger and balance sheet, and that outgo must be kept at least within hailing distance of income.

Among some of the more radical new dealers, to whom Mr. Hopkins is an idol, are many, still in government, who believe and have said that government control and socialization of property and income are desirable and that they can be achieved quietly, subtly and without evolution by spending, taxing and the incurment of public debt until the government to all intents and purposes does own or control everything in the country. They also have said that the political power necessary to do this is easily retained by a simple formula best expressed by Mr. Hopkins himself: "tax and tax and spend and spend and elect and elect." Well we are surely on our way.

ATTACK PRICE FIXING BILL IN CONGRESS

Vigorous Opposition Launched Following Introduction Of Proposal.

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON—A three front attack on the administration's sweeping price fixing bill opened in congress today, 12 hours after the measure was formally introduced in the two houses.

1. The powerful farm bloc served notice that it will seek either to remove from the bill all power to fix agricultural prices or will insist that a floor as well as a ceiling be granted for farm products.

2. An anti New Deal group, philosophically opposed to the present price administrator, Leon Henderson, announced it will fight to have administration of the bill given to some kind of a board rather than to one man.

3. Strong anti-inflationists, who insist that the monetary situation cannot be controlled without control over credit, declared they will fight to have re-inserted in the bill the power to freeze credit and control installment buying.

The bill, as finally introduced after a series of heated conferences, contained two basic changes from its original form—all credit control was deleted, and the agricultural section provided that farm ceilings could not be set below 110 per cent of parity.

As first drawn, the measure would have permitted sweeping credit control by invoking the 1933 emergency banking act and would have permitted farm prices to be set down as low as actual parity.

Otherwise the measure was substantially as submitted by the administration. It permits the president to set ceilings on prices of any commodities, foodstuffs, raw materials, and services, but not on wages.

All prices, however, must be fixed with "due consideration" being taken of the prevailing prices of July 29 1941—although they would not necessarily have to be frozen as of that date.

The powers under the bill are to run for one year after the end of the present emergency, unless terminated by a congressional resolution.

Rent controls are limited to defense areas and to housing accommodations which rented subsequent to Aug. 31, 1940, for $15 per month per room or less. The president is permitted to buy and sell in the market in order to prevent inflation and is given broad powers to delegate administration of the act to any individual or agency.

Rep. Cannon (D., Mo.), veteran farm leader, expressed the views of his group when he said:

"We will oppose any ceiling whatever on farm products, unless steps are taken to place a floor under agricultural goods and measures to prevent farm prices from collapsing after the emergency."

The anti-New Dealers, who predict that Henderson will become the price czar of the country if the bill is enacted, are headed by Sen. Taft (R., Ohio), who announced he would seek to give price administration to a federal board instead of to an individual.

The credit provision—or rather the present lack of it—admittedly will be one of the most controversial aspects of the bill. The president, in requesting price control powers, asked also for credit control, and a strong move will be made to restore this to the bill.

All that is lacking to complete the program for the water pageant to be given the middle of this month is a canoe. If there are any in Richland county that can be donated for the event the final hitch in arrangements will be solved for Bernard Hardy, Red Cross first aid and water safety director, who is in charge of the pageant. The dearth of canoes in these parts came to light recently when Hardy found a group of potential "canoe-ers" but no craft for them to manipulate. GUNMAN SLAYS MERCHANT IN HOLDUP FORAY

Two Others Wounded; Police In Three States Join In Search.

(By United Press)

TOLEDO — A short, stocky bandit with an impatient trigger finger who killed one man and wounded two others seriously was the object of an intensive three-state search today.

The outlaw, described as about 40 years of age and weighing 200 pounds, shot and killed Samuel Arnovitz, 54, wholesale rubber dealer; wounded Herman Cantor, 26, scrap metal dealer, in the neck, and wounded Ernest Zimmer, 18, clerk in the Toledo Ice & Coal company, in the back.

Arnovitz and Cantor were shot two hours after Zimmer was held up and robbed of $140 in the fuel company's office.

The gunman apparently was hidden in the back of Cantor's automobile when the owner and Arnovitz emerged from the office of the Cuchon Iron & Metal company.

The two men got into the car and started to drive away. Then, according to Samuel Duchon, a witness, the car swerved and Arnovitz fell or was pushed from the moving vehicle. The car stopped and Duchon ran over to find Cantor slumped in the back seat.

The gunman whom Duchon had noticed in the back seat of the car disappeared.

A short time earlier, Zimmer was alone in the fuel company office when a bandit leveled a pistol at him and took $140 from a cash box and register.

The gunman then forced Zimmer to accompany him into a nearby vacant building. While the bandit attempted to bind Zimmer's hands behind his back, his gun discharged and wounded Zimmer.

The gunman fled, losing $5 in change which slipped to the floor near Zimmer.

Ohio, Michigan and Indiana police were warned to be on the lookout for the outlaw who was said to be about five feet, four inches tall.

ADMITS HOLDUP

WOOSTER — (AP) — Joseph A. Martinez, 27, of Massillon, was held in county jail here today, Sheriff E. E. Mills said, after signing a statement admitting he attempted to hold up the National bank of Orrville yesterday.

Mills said Martinez gave Cashier Leroy Webner a dollar with a request for change, then followed it with a note to "keep cool—do as I tell you. This means your life or mine." Webner dropped behind the counter and set off a burglar alarm.

The would-be robber fled, and Sheriff Mills said Martinez was picked up two hours later—minus his dollar.

BROADWAY

—By Dorothy Kilgallen

You Can't Print That!

A COMPENDIUM of tales that can't be told with names, because they're too true to print. If you find in them any resemblance to actual persons — living or dead — you've probably guessed right!)

Dorothy Kilgallen

This is the story of a Big Shot and a Little Guy. If you wrote it into a fiction short-story, the editors would turn it down because it's too pat to be plausible. But it just happens to be true.

The Big Shot was Larry, a spender when he hit Broadway and one of the powers behind the most talked-of political machine the Midwest has ever known. Through a dizzying list of enterprises he amassed a great fortune, but his principal interest has always been a famous hotel in one of the biggest cities west of the Mississippi.

The Little Guy was Henry. Henry was a traveling salesman who came at intervals to Larry's hotel and spent his visit there getting more drunk and disorderly by the minute.

Invariably, when Henry's office started bombarding him with wires from New York asking him to report home, the salesman would find himself without funds. But Larry was a tolerant, generous sort of fellow.

For two or three years, whenever Henry got into a jam, the Big Shot would lend him enough money to get back to New York and cancel his hotel bill.

It was funny about that salesman. He was sensible and efficient in every other town. But the gay city where Larry lived—that did something to him.

Eventually, on one of the visits Henry's office tired of telegraphing him to report so they discharged him.

He hung around the town drunk and dejected and depending upon Larry for a bed and a handout. One dismal night he decided to end it all, but a telephone operator overheard him talking to his family on the long-distance phone, and the local police foiled the suicide plane.

Larry got the Little Guy out of jail, vouched for him, dug into his pocket for more money so Henry could get out of town. He even called the salesman's family and talked them into forgiving him and taking him back.

Years passed. The Little Guy, strangely enough, returned to the town he had left in disgrace, landed a good job, and worked industriously at it. The Big Shot, on the other hand, played the game too fast and got into hot water. The political machine changed, a federal investigation followed, and Larry was indicted and convicted.

Larry is in jail. And as he sits in his cell he broods over one thing—a thing he can't understand, called Human Nature. He's puzzled over this one: The day he received his verdict in court, the foreman of the jury who pronounced him guilty was none other than—you guessed it—Henry, the Little Guy!

But you can't print that. Nobody but O. Henry would believe it, and he's dead.

You read about Marcia all the time. She's billed in the columns as a glamor girl, the "toothpaste heriss," the exbride of a lad who's pretty well-known himself in a rotogravure, polo-playing way.

Reading about her, you have reason to envy her. She lunches at Twenty-One, has cocktails at the Barberry Room, dines at the Plaza and dances at the Stork. Each new suitor of hers is duly noted in the news pages—and she has plenty of suitors because of her great fortune.

Or, rather, of the great fortune she's supposed to have.

Actually, she hasn't any money. Her aunt, who is her guardian has millions, left to her by her late husband, the toothpaste Midas. But his will stipulated that when his wife dies the money all goes to charity!

And you can't print that, Marcia's socialite first husband gave her the ozone when he learned the truth about her "fortune." If everybody knew it, she wouldn't have any fun at all!

DEFENSE BOARD SETS HEARING

Will Consider Union Complaint Against Ohio Brass In Washington Session.

The Defense Mediation board ruled today that it would consider a complaint by the United Electrical, Radio and Machine Workers Local 758 (CIO) at the Ohio Brass company at a hearing Aug. 11.

The union declared a one day "work holiday" at the company July 16 in protest over the discharge of Joseph Sferro, foundry worker.

The Mediation board also asked resumption of work at the strike-bound Barberton plant of the Ohio Brass as "speedily as possible."

Meanwhile the board asked that a federal labor department conciliator meet with company and union officials in an effort to obtain a complete agreement before that time.

Richard Niebur, U. E. R. M. W. field representative, said that a telegram from the mediation board stated that further conflict between company and union workers would "burden or obstruct production or transportation of equipment or materials essential to national defense."

The mediation board stated that since grievances had not been adjusted by a federal conciliator, representatives of both company and union would be called to Washington for a hearing.

Niebur said that he and Steve Thoma, president of local 758 would probably represent the union at the hearing at Washington.

HOLD RECORD

Car Sales Highest For Month Despite Seasonal Drop.

New automobile sales in Richland county continued to set records in July with 299 cars sold, highest total ever reported for the month in the county.

Despite the record figure, sales for the month dropped off sharply from the totals for the four preceding months, according to figures compiled by Miss Ruth Them, deputy registrar in the county clerk of courts office.

Sales usually fall off during the summer months, it was pointed out, and the decline was anticipated. County dealers sold 24 new trucks in July, two less than in June.

New car sales for the first seven months of the year totaled 2,558 for a 25 per cent gain over the corresponding months of 1940. Truck sales also were well ahead of last year's figures.

Playboy Jailed On Charge of Attacking Singer

STOCKTON, Calif.—(U.P.)—Marcel Battilana, 38, member of a prominent Stockton family, was arrested and jailed early today on the charge of Joyce Marlow, 22, a pretty night club singer, that he kidnaped her at the point of a gun and raped her three times in a hotel.

He was booked for "investigation of rape." District Attorney Raymond M. Dunn said he would file a formal complaint later today.

Miss Marlowe confronted Battilana and accused him of assaulting her, but he denied the charge, Dunn said.

Meanwhile, Assistant District Attorney Donald Bosco took Miss Marlow back to the hotel, in Tracy, Calif., to determine whether it is linked with a white-slave ring.

She told District Attorney Raymond M. Dunn that she came here four weeks ago from San Francisco to sing in a luxurious new night club.

She said she met her attacker Thursday night, and when she finished work at 2 a. m. yesterday, he offered to take her to breakfast.

Instead of taking her to breakfast, she said he drove to the hotel. When she protested, he drew a gun and threatened her boasting he was a "dangerous man."

REDS ASSERT 4 DIVISIONS ARE DESTROYED

try division, trapped in the Smolensk sector, and that Soviet artillery accounted for other hundreds slain.

"In order to help retreating German forces," the communique said, "the German command threw into the battle the 137th German division which entered the fighting straight from the march."

Before the foot-weary Nazis could swing into action, the Russians said, Red troops struck in a flanking attack and cut them off from support.

The entire German division was said to have been annihilated.

Soviet dispatches also reported that the 99th Red army division, an organization of picked veterans, had destroyed three other German divisions. The Russians said immobilized German tanks, their fuel exhausted, were being half sunk in the ground and used by the Nazis as pillboxes.

While the Russians pictured the 42-day-old conflict as turning in their favor, the Germans asserted a heavy onslaught against Moscow itself was imminent.

Informed quarters in Berlin said a German vanguard overtook retreating Russian forces on a motor highway far east of Smolensk, apparently the Minsk-to-Moscow highway—and established another encirclement in that area. The precise locale was not given, but previous reports indicated it might be in the vicinity of Vyazma, 130 miles from Moscow.

An unofficial German summary claimed 82,000 Russians were taken prisoner from last Saturday to today.

DNB, the official German news agency, said the four towns of Nevel, Novorzhev, Smolensk and Zhitomir—named in Soviet communiques to identify battle sectors—have been in German hands for a long time.

Germany military dispatches said the Smolensk sector, 230 miles west of Moscow, was littered with bodies of men and horses and a jumble of wrecked machines.

Berlin still had no decisive news from the north front, where the Germans several days ago declared that Russia's great industrial city of Leningrad was imperiled by a giant "squeeze" movement of Nazi troops striking from the south and Finnish forces descending from the north.

Behind the lines of battle, a rising tide of revolt was reported in German-conquered countries.

A Belgian source in London said Belgium's independence day, on July 21, was marked by stormy anti-German demonstrations and street fighting in many parts of the country.

In Stockholm, Swedish newspapers reported that German police had taken over all power in Norway and that a state of civil siege had been proclaimed throughout the Nazi-occupied country. The German action followed a reported clash between Nazi marines and civilians at Alesund, Norway.

On the diplomatic front, Mexicans demanded the recall of the German minister and the ousting of Nazi consuls after the government had bluntly rejected a German note asking Mexico to protest the U. S. blacklist of pro-Nazi firms.

In Mexico City, Senator Alfonso Flores, president of the senate's foreign relations committee, said German Minister Rudt Von Collenberg should be declared "persona non grata" immediately for his "discourteous and insolent" note.

An informed government source said the padlocking of German consulates was being seriously considered.

Moscow had its ninth air raid of the war last night, described in Moscow as another fizzle. Only three or four raiders broke through the capital's defenses, the Russians reported.

Some German planes raided England overnight but the British said the attacks were scattered and on a small scale.

GEN. JOHNSON:

By GEN. HUGH S. JOHNSON

WASHINGTON—Superficially it seems grotesquely ridiculous to talk about rationing down to as low as five gallons of gas a week the eastern part of a nation with such an abundance of petroleum that most of its wells are pinched in to a fraction of their potential production. The answer is of course: "Oh there is plenty of gas. Our trouble is that we can't transport it from the mid-continent fields to the eastern points of use." The reason why we can't transport it is that we have taken away 50 ocean-going oil tank ships from their private owners to give to Great Britain and expect to take away 100 more.

O. K., if that is necessary and a fair and just balance of burdens between our own people and those of another nation. But who says that the balance of burdens is fair, just and necessary? How does he arrive at that decision? In arriving at it, who speaks for the American people?

I don't know the answers to those questions, but with at least a reasonable contact with what is going on, the mere fact that I don't know is excuse enough to write this column of queries.

We seem to have taken the lid off the public treasury and the great American storehouse and workshop in unlimited generosity first to Britain and now, it would appear, to Russia. We haven't yet felt much pinch ourselves but, boy, we are going to feel it! Still we say "O. K. if necessary and the pinch is equal all around but there remain a good many Americans from Missouri whose motto is still 'show me.'"

We have practically said to Great Britain and are about to say to Russia: "We will send you whatever you ask for and you don't have to pay a cent for it. The American people will pay." Not to criticize these nations at all but just to be a little realistic in our own behalf, in such circumstances, what would restrain them from asking without stint or limit—what would restrain any nation?

Is there any "no" or "lets see about that" department in our government and, if so, where is it? The man in charge of this handout part of our effort is Mr. Harry Hopkins, a sort of modern Rasputin in the palace, who is the greatest spender of public funds with the least regard for public debt and tax-payers' interests that ever appeared in the whole history of mankind. After a second visit to London, where the canny Britons took him over just as completely as grant took Richmond and "Dear Winston" began writing friends here about "Dear Harry," Mr. Hopkins has winged his way to Moscow to see what he can spend there. That's all right too, in principle, but there would be more confidence if our "lease-lend" ambassador was some guy who had ever exhibited a faint suspicion that there really is a bottom to even the biggest bag of public treasure, or that American tax-payers also have to feed their own families.

The president has said that the ex-WPA master-spender is only a "book-keeper" in his present job as "lease-lend" administrator If he is, he is a new and very convenient kind of bookkeeper—one who doesn't know that there is a debit side to every ledger and balance sheet, and that outgo must be kept at least within hailing distance of income.

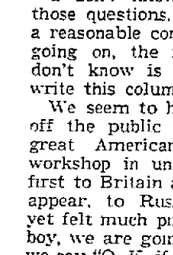
Among some of the more radical new dealers, to whom Mr. Hopkins is an idol, are many, still in government, who believe and have said that government control and socialization of property and income are desirable and that they can be achieved quietly, subtly and without evolution by spending, taxing and the incurment of public debt until the government to all intents and purposes does own or control everything in the country. They also have said that the political power necessary to do this is easily retained by a simple formula best expressed by Mr. Hopkins himself: "tax and tax and spend and spend and elect and elect." Well we are surely on our way.

BROADWAY

—By Dorothy Kilgallen

You Can't Print That!

A COMPENDIUM of tales that can't be told with names, because they're too true to print. If you find in them any resemblance to actual persons — living or dead — you've probably guessed right!)



Dorothy Kilgallen

This is the story of a Big Shot and a Little Guy. If you wrote it into a fiction short-story, the editors would turn it down because it's too pat to be plausible. But it just happens to be true.

The Big Shot was Larry, a spender when he hit Broadway and one of the powers behind the most talked-of political machine the Midwest has ever known Through a dizzying list of enterprises he amassed a great fortune, but his principal interest has always been a famous hotel in one of the biggest cities west of the Mississippi

The Little Guy was Henry. Henry was a traveling salesman who came at intervals to Larry's hotel and spent his visit there getting more drunk and disorderly by the minute.

Invariably, when Henry's office started bombarding him with wires from New York asking him to report home, the salesman would find himself without funds But Larry was a tolerant, generous sort of fellow.

For two or three years, whenever Henry got into a jam, the Big Shot would lend him enough money to get back to New York and cancel his hotel bill

It was funny about that salesman. He was sensible and efficient in every other town But the gay city where Larry lived—that did something to him.

Eventually, on one of the visits Henry's office tired of telegraphing him to report so they discharged him

He hung around the town, drunk and dejected and depending upon Larry for a bed and a handout. One dismal night he decided to end it all, but a telephone operator overheard him talking to his family on the long-distance phone, and the local police foiled the suicide plane.

Larry got the Little Guy out of jail, vouched for him, dug into his pocket for more money so Henry could get out of town. He even called the salesman's family and talked them into forgiving him and taking him back.

Years passed. The Little Guy, strangely enough, returned to the town he had left in disgrace, landed a good job, and worked industriously at it. The Big Shot, on the other hand, played the game too fast and got into hot water. The political machine changed, a federal investigation followed, and Larry was indicted and convicted.

Larry is in jail. And as he sits in his cell he broods over one thing—a thing he can't understand, called Human Nature. He's puzzled over this one: The day he received his verdict in court, the foreman of the jury who pronounced him guilty was none other than—you guessed it—Henry, the Little Guy!

But you can't print that. Nobody but O Henry would believe it, and he's dead.

You read about Marcia all the time She's billed in the columns as a glamor girl, the "toothpaste heiress," the exbride of a lad who's pretty well-known himself in a rotogravure, polo-playing way

Reading about her, you have reason to envy her She lunches at Twenty-One, has cocktails at the Barberry Room, dines at the Plaza and dances at the Stork. Each new suitor of hers is duly noted in the news pages and she has plenty of suitors because of her great fortune

Or, rather, of the great fortune she's supposed to have

Actually, she hasn't any money Her aunt, who is her guardian has millions, left to her by her late husband, the toothpaste Midas. But his will stipulated that when his wife dies the money all goes to charity!

And you can't print that. Marcia's socialite first husband gave her the ozone when he learned the truth about her "fortune." If everybody knew it she wouldn't have any fun at all!

ATTACK PRICE FIXING BILL IN CONGRESS

Vigorous Opposition Launched Following Introduction Of Proposal.

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON—A three front attack on the administration's sweeping price fixing bill opened in congress today, 12 hours after the measure was formally introduced in the two houses.

1. The powerful farm bloc served notice that it will seek either to remove from the bill all power to fix agricultural prices or will insist that a floor as well as a ceiling be granted for farm products.

2. An anti New Deal group, philosophically opposed to the present price administrator, Leon Henderson, announced it will fight to have administration of the bill given to some kind of a board rather than to one man.

3 Strong anti-inflationists, who insist that the monetary situation cannot be controlled without control over credit, declared they will fight to have re-inserted in the bill the power to freeze credit and control installment buying.

The bill, as finally introduced after a series of heated conferences, contained two basic changes from its original form —all credit control was deleted, and the agricultural section provided that farm ceilings could not be set below 110 per cent of parity.

As first drawn, the measure would have permitted sweeping credit control by invoking the 1933 emergency banking act and would have permitted farm prices to be set down as low as actual parity.

Otherwise the measure was substantially as submitted by the administration. It permits the president to set ceilings on prices of any commodities, foodstuffs, raw materials, and services, but not on wages.

All prices, however, must be fixed with "due consideration" being taken of the prevailing prices of July 29, 1941—although they would not necessarily have to be frozen as of that date.

The powers under the bill are to run for one year after the end of the present emergency, unless terminated by a congressional resolution.

Rent controls are limited to defense areas and to housing accommodations which rented subsequent to Aug. 31, 1940, for $15 per month per room or less. The president is permitted to buy and sell in the market in order to prevent inflation and is given broad powers to delegate administration of the act to any individual or agency.

Rep. Cannon (D., Mo.), veteran farm leader, expressed the views of his group when he said:

"We will oppose any ceiling whatever on farm products, unless steps are taken to place a floor under agricultural goods and measures to prevent farm prices from collapsing after the emergency."

The anti-New Dealers, who predict that Henderson will become the price czar of the country if the bill is enacted, are headed by Sen. Taft (R., Ohio), who announced he would seek to give price administration to a federal board instead of to an individual.

The credit provision—or rather the present lack of it—admittedly will be one of the most controversial aspects of the bill. The president, in requesting price control powers, asked also for credit control, and a strong move will be made to restore this to the bill.

DEFENSE BOARD SETS HEARING

Will Consider Union Complaint Against Ohio Brass In Washington Session.

The Defense Mediation board ruled today that it would consider a complaint by the United Electrical, Radio and Machine Workers Local 758 (CIO) at the Ohio Brass company at a hearing Aug. 11.

The union declared a one day "work holiday" at the company July 16 in protest over the discharge of Joseph Sferro, foundry worker.

The Mediation board also asked resumption of work at the strike-bound Barberton plant of the Ohio Brass as "speedily as possible."

Meanwhile the board asked that a federal labor department conciliator meet with company and union officials in an effort to obtain a complete agreement before that time.

Richard Niebur, U. E. R. M. W. field representative, said that a telegram from the mediation board stated that further conflict between company and union workers would "burden or obstruct production or transportation of equipment or materials essential to national defense."

The mediation board stated that since grievances had not been adjusted by a federal conciliator, representatives of both company and union would be called to Washington for a hearing.

Niebur said that he and Steve Thoma, president of local 758 would probably represent the union at the hearing at Washington.

HOLD RECORD

Car Sales Highest For Month Despite Seasonal Drop.

New automobile sales in Richland county continued to set records in July with 299 cars sold, highest total ever reported for the month in the county.

Despite the record figure, sales for the month dropped off sharply from the totals for the four preceding months, according to figures compiled by Miss Ruth Them, deputy registrar in the county clerk of courts office.

Sales usually fall off during the summer months, it was pointed out, and the decline was anticipated County dealers sold 24 new trucks in July, two less than in June.

New car sales for the first seven months of the year totaled 2,538 for a 25 per cent gain over the corresponding months of 1940. Truck sales also were well ahead of last year's figures.

All that is lacking to complete the program for the water pageant to be given the middle of this month is a canoe. If there are any in Richland county that can be donated for the event the final hitch in arrangements will be solved for Bernard Hardy, Red Cross first aid and water safety director, who is in charge of the pageant. The dearth of canoes in these parts came to light recently when Hardy found a group of potential "canoe-ers" but no craft for them to manipulate. Hardy hasn't decided yet whether the pageant will be at North Lake or Liberty pool.

GUNMAN SLAYS MERCHANT IN HOLDUP FORAY

Two Others Wounded; Police In Three States Join In Search.

(By United Press)

TOLEDO — A short, stocky bandit with an impatient trigger finger who killed one man and wounded two others seriously was the object of an intensive three-state search today.

The outlaw, described as about 40 years of age and weighing 200 pounds, shot and killed Samuel Arnovitz, 54, wholesale rubber dealer; wounded Herman Cantor, 26, scrap metal dealer, in the neck, and wounded Ernest Zimmer, 18, clerk in the Toledo Ice & Coal company, in the back.

Arnovitz and Cantor were shot two hours after Zimmer was held up and robbed of $140 in the fuel company's office.

The gunman apparently was hidden in the back of Cantor's automobile when the owner and Arnovitz emerged from the office of the Cuchon Iron & Metal company.

The two men got into the car and started to drive away. Then, according to Samuel Duchon, a witness, the car swerved and Arnovitz fell or was pushed from the moving vehicle. The car stopped and Duchon ran over to find Cantor slumped in the back seat.

The gunman whom Duchon had noticed in the back seat of the car disappeared.

A short time earlier, Zimmer was alone in the fuel company office when a bandit leveled a pistol at him and took $140 from a cash box and register.

The gunman then forced Zimmer to accompany him into a nearby vacant building. While the bandit attempted to bind Zimmer's hands behind his back, his gun discharged and wounded Zimmer.

The gunman fled, losing $5 in change which slipped to the floor near Zimmer.

Ohio, Michigan and Indiana police were warned to be on the lookout for the outlaw who was said to be about five feet, four inches tall.

ADMITS HOLDUP

WOOSTER — (AP) — Joseph A. Martinez, 27, of Massillon, was held in county jail here today, Sheriff E. E. Mills said, after signing a statement admitting he attempted to hold up the National bank of Orrville yesterday.

Mills said Martinez gave Cashier Leroy Webner a dollar with a request for change, then followed it with a note to "keep cool—do as I tell you. This means your life or mine." Webner dropped behind the counter and set off a burglar alarm.

The would-be robber fled, and Sheriff Mills said Martinez was picked up two hours later—minus his dollar.

Playboy Jailed On Charge of Attacking Singer

STOCKTON, Calif.—(U.P.)—Marcel Battilana, 38, member of a prominent Stockton family, was arrested and jailed early today on the charge of Joyce Marlow, 22, a pretty night club singer, that he kidnaped her at the point of a gun and raped her three times in a hotel.

He was booked for "investigation of rape." District Attorney Raymond M. Dunn said he would file a formal complaint later today.

Miss Marlowe confronted Battilana and accused him of assaulting her, but he denied the charge, Dunn said

Meanwhile, Assistant District Attorney Donald Bosco took Miss Marlow back to the hotel, in Tracy, Calif., to determine whether it is linked with a white-slave ring.

She told District Attorney Raymond M. Dunn that she came here four weeks ago from San Francisco to sing in a luxurious new night club.

She said she met her attacker Thursday night, and when she finished work at 2 a. m. yesterday, he offered to take her to breakfast.

Instead of taking her to breakfast, she said he drove to the hotel. When she protested, he drew a gun and threatened her boasting he was a "dangerous man."

HERE'S ANOTHER

This Is a Fish Story About the One That Didn't Get Away.

DAYTON—(U.P.)—Dr. Thomas P. Sharkey and Dr. E. R. Thomas have a swell "whopper" fish story—and this one almost got away with them.

They were casting lines from a 40-foot cabin cruiser in Casco bay near Portland, Me., recently when they hooked a giant tuna.

The tuna hauled the bulky cruiser for six miles before the doctors were able to reel it in after a two-hour struggle. The fish was nine feet long and weighed 573 pounds.

REDS ASSERT 4 DIVISIONS ARE DESTROYED

try division, trapped in the Smolensk sector, and that Soviet artillery accounted for other hundreds slain.

"In order to help retreating German forces," the communique said, "the German command threw into the battle the 137th German division which entered the fighting straight from the march."

Before the foot-weary Nazis could swing into action, the Russians said, Red troops struck in a flanking attack and cut them off from support.

The entire German division was said to have been annihilated.

Soviet dispatches also reported that the 99th Red army division, an organization of picked veterans, had destroyed three other German divisions. The Russians said immobilized German tanks, their fuel exhausted, were being half sunk in the ground and used by the Nazis as pillboxes.

While the Russians pictured the 42-day-old conflict as turning in their favor, the Germans asserted a heavy onslaught against Moscow itself was imminent.

Informed quarters in Berlin said a German vanguard overtook retreating Russian forces on a motor highway far east of Smolensk, apparently the Minsk-to-Moscow highway—and established another encirclement in that area. The precise locale was not given, but previous reports indicated it might be in the vicinity of Vyazma, 130 miles from Moscow.

An unofficial German summary claimed 82,000 Russians were taken prisoner from last Saturday to today.

DNB, the official German news agency, said the four towns of Nevel, Novorzhev, Smolensk and Zhitomir—named in Soviet communiques to identify battle sectors—have been in German hands for a long time.

Germany military dispatches said the Smolensk sector, 230 miles west of Moscow, was littered with bodies of men and horses and a jumble of wrecked machines.

Berlin still had no decisive news from the north front, where the Germans several days ago declared that Russia's great industrial city of Leningrad was imperiled by a giant "squeeze" movement of Nazi troops striking from the south and Finnish forces descending from the north.

Behind the lines of battle, a rising tide of revolt was reported in German-conquered countries.

A Belgian source in London said Belgium's independence day, on July 21, was marked by stormy anti-German demonstrations and street fighting in many parts of the country.

In Stockholm, Swedish newspapers reported that German police had taken over all power in Norway and that a state of civil siege had been proclaimed throughout the Nazi-occupied country. The German action followed a reported clash between Nazi marines and civilians at Alesund, Norway.

On the diplomatic front, Mexicans demanded the recall of the German minister and the ousting of Nazi consuls after the government had bluntly rejected a German note asking Mexico to protest the U. S. blacklist of pro-Nazi firms.

In Mexico City, Senator Alfonso Flores, president of the senate's foreign relations committee, said German Minister Rudt Von Collenberg should be declared "persona non grata" immediately for his "discourteous and insolent" note.

An informed government source said the padlocking of German consulates was being seriously considered.

Moscow had its ninth air raid of the war last night, described in Moscow as another fizzle. Only three or four raiders broke through the capital's defenses, the Russians reported.

Some German planes raided England overnight but the British said the attacks were scattered and on a small scale.

AN INDEPENDENT NEWSPAPER

MANSFIELD, OHIO, SATURDAY, AUGUST 2, 1941.

Drive carefully tomorrow—then, if anything happens, it will be the other fellow's fault.

Another South American country is engaged in rounding up "undesirable Nazis"—and the search still goes on for a "desirable" Nazi.

The wonder is that so many Americans were able to find their way around before Duncan Hines started to tell them where to eat and sleep.

Debate Period of Extension

CONGRESS appears to be quibbling over a minor point in debating the proposal to extend the period of selective service beyond the one-year limit originally specified.

There is talk about a four months, six months, and one year extension, instead of for duration of the need, as has been asked.

Whatever individual opinions may have been held at the time the selective service method of securing trainees was decided upon, it must have been obvious that the purpose of this military training was to provide more adequate manpower in connection with the defense program.

Belief has been expressed by President Roosevelt and by General Marshall, army chief of staff, that the situation is now much graver, insofar as the United States is concerned, than it was when trainees were called to service, and that it would be extremely dangerous to permit weakening of actual or potential military strength at this time.

When the need ends, whether in a few months or longer, there would be a natural inclination to return national guardsmen and draftees to civilian life as quickly as possible, but it is equally certain that if, at the end of a four months or six months extension, the country is still in great danger, present trainees will be kept in service—and more added.

The unexpected strength of Russian resistance to Nazi invaders, the growing power of Great Britain under stimulus of American aid, the evidence of increasing unity among nations of the Western Hemisphere, the firm policies being adopted toward Japan—all of these things tend to show that the ultimate defeat of Hitlerism, restoration of sanity in Europe and assurance of freedom for the Americas, is merely a matter of time. How long it will take will depend, in large measure, on the part that the people of the United States choose to play in coming weeks and months.

Good Choice as Traffic Commissioner

APPOINTMENT of Frend C. Boals to direct Mansfield's new traffic division of the police department encourages belief that a really serious approach is finally being made to betterment of traffic conditions in this city.

For a number of years Officer Boals has concentrated his attention on the subject of traffic safety and his observation, study and experience have been such as to qualify him in an admirable way to take on the increased responsibilities of his new post.

As the originator of the "Safetytown" plan of instilling habits of watchfulness and caution in children of pre-school age Boals evidenced initiative and originality which should prove valuable qualities in directing activities of the traffic squad, he did a good job of supervising the junior school patrol and he also has the happy faculty of being courteous and agreeable in performance of his duties.

With the training which Chief of Police Bates has received under tutorship of the Federal Bureau of Investigation; the knowledge of Traffic Commissioner Boals in that particular field; the experience of older officers in their work, and the addition of five carefully selected new men to the personnel of the police department, it appears that Mansfield is in better position than ever before in the matters of traffic law enforcement and general police protection.

Greater Precautions Against Fires

A NATION-WIDE program has been launched to secure general adoption of a comprehensive municipal fire prevention ordinance, as a means of strengthening national defense.

The suggested ordinance provides for the creation of a bureau of fire prevention in the local fire departments, and gives the bureau authority covering fire prevention in general; storage and use of explosives and flammables; the installation and maintenance of private alarm systems and fire extinguishing equipment; the maintenance and regulation of fire escapes; the means and adequacy of exits from all manner of buildings in which persons live, work or congregate, and the investigation of the causes, origin and circumstances of fires.

In announcing this new plan, W. E. Mallalieu, general manager of the National Board of Fire Underwriters, said: "Many plants are running three shifts. Many of them are taking on work foreign to their former operations; new materials and processes are being introduced, and general business is being speeded up. Excess production, especially in agriculture, must be stored; cotton, which has a high hazard, is an outstanding example of the necessity of supervision of storage which it is not now receiving. It is therefore of vital importance at this time to give adequate authority to fire departments."

Choosing Clothes for Comfort

TREND toward more comfortable clothing for summer wear is being observed all over the country—with quite general inclination among men to dispense with coats.

A check-up in Atlanta indicates that a woman may get by, and very often does, with less than one pound of clothing. Men, being a less practical and more conservative sex, seem to be carrying around for their own discomfort an average load of seven pounds of duds—it might be anywhere from four or five to ten in any particular case.

Women have the advantage not only in weight of garments but in quality. They incline to fabrics permitting ventilation. Men don't seem able to get away from materials which, in comparison, are rather impervious to air. In a so-called temperate climate, they don't seem to grasp the fact that summer, over most of this country, is tropical.

Tropical garb for tropical weather ought to make sense to anybody, and weather is no respecter of sex; but apparently men, as used to be said of women, "have a talent for martyrdom."

They are telling about an Illinois motorist driving thirty miles from a filling station before he noticed that his wife hadn't returned to the car—then he came to a fork in the road and had to drive back for instructions.

Man About Manhattan

—By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK — The customers sometimes raise interesting points:

"It has been a long time since I have read anything that has troubled me in the manner that your article on the zoo did," writes J. T. M. of New Orleans. "I refer to the paragraph on the wolf and his 'constant pacing to and fro, with never a pause . . . from daylight until dusk.' Unlike humans who have committed some vile crime, that unfortunate animal is innocent and was taken from his homeland—the wild—where, if you believe God created all life, his Creator placed him... Do you really believe that the human race gains . . . by such pathetic sights as that imprisoned, unhappy animal who deserves above all its freedom?"

That's a pretty tough question to answer, Mr. M. It's controversial. . . . If you take the long view, science owes much to its endless, patient observation of animals. . . . Without them Koch and Pasteur would never have been able to fathom the riddles of tuberculosis and rabies. . . . On the other hand, nothing is as distressing as the sight of a child, or an animal, in distress.

* * *

TELL me if you can," asks M. C. H. of Fort Worth, "how I may go about getting copies of the State Guides you have mentioned in your columns several times."

You can get them at almost any bookstore. . . . They range in price from $1 to $3. If your book dealer doesn't have them, he can easily get them. The Guide to your own state of Texas is a peach. . . . One of the very best. . . . It was published by Hastings House, New York.

* * *

FROM Hastings, Michigan, Miss L. P. writes to say, "Recently I saw in your column mention of a recording made by Charles Laughton about the rivers of the United States. I tried to get the record in Grand Rapids but was unsuccessful. Will you please tell me the name of the record and the company that makes it?"

That was a private recording, Miss P. It was made by the Columbia Broadcasting company. They took it off the air during the actual broadcast and placed it in their library for reference. All broadcasting companies record important programs, but these recordings are never sold.

* * *

HERE are two notes with but a single thought . . . R. W. of Kansas City, and B. E. H. of Coatesville, Pa. want to know about tickets to major broadcasts in the New York studios.

These tickets are free, but the waiting list is so long that it usually is advisable to place requests weeks ahead. If you plan to come to New York, I would advise writing at once to the Guest Relations Department of NBC, CBS, or MBS, New York City.

Most book publishers believe the prices of books will be up 25 per cent by Jan. 1st . . . It's the rising cost of paper and other essentials that does it.

Electric Power Is Tough Problem

—By CARTER FIELD

WASHINGTON — The toughest nut to crack in the national defense picture, so far as production is concerned, is admittedly electricity. The point is that it takes longer to construct a power plant than almost any of the defense plants for which such power will be needed.

It takes longer to construct a hydro plant than a steam plant, but even the steam plants require more time than airplane factories, motor factories, or even plants for manufacturing explosives.

Hence the need for conservation already manifested during the recent drought in the Southwest, and expected to occur in almost every section of the country.

* * *

TO MEET this situation, while waiting for the new electric plants to be completed, an elaborate conservation system has been worked out by J. A. Krug, head of the power division of OPM, and Leland Olds, head of the Federal Power Commission. This is the scheme, incidentally, which was dumped on President Roosevelt's desk five minutes before Harold L. Ickes appeared in the president's office with an executive order which would have made Ickes the power czar as well as the oil and gasoline dictator.

As a result of this five minutes difference in time, some observers think, the executive order was not signed—and has not been as this is written. But it may be signed at any time in the event that (1) Krug and Olds seem to the president to be falling down on the job, or (2) Ickes is able to talk the president into it anyway.

The fundamental idea of the conservation plan, leaving out details for the construction of new plants at strategic points, is the grid or pool arrangement. Obviously, every power system in the country, whether privately or publicly owned, maintains a reserve. In other words it seeks to have a capacity well in excess of any reasonable demand which may suddenly occur.

* * *

ASSUMING that in an ordinary-sized distribution system this reserve is 10,000 kilowatts above whatever is the peak load, there would be this huge block of power which might be made available for national defense production. So the idea is to tie all the systems together—then one reserve of 10,000 kilowatts might do for ten systems, say, while the reserves of nine of them, or 90,000 kilowatts, would be available for defense production.

It is not as simple as it sounds, of course. One difficulty is the heavy loss of power if electricity is conducted a long distance. But the pool system takes care of part of this. It is proposed to bridge several gaps in connections. For instance between Connecticut and New York, and between New York and New Jersey.

The reason these gaps existed was due to the desire of the private companies to avoid federal interference by the simple expedient of not indulging in interstate business.

But if Baltimore can depend on the reserve of the Washington company, it can transfer its reserve to the "pool." As most of Baltimore's power comes from McCall's Ferry, in Pennsylvania, it would be simple to use this transferred power in New Jersey, and permit New Jersey thus to operate more defense industries, or help New York. And so on all up and down the country.

Citizenship at 18

—By ELSIE ROBINSON

SHOULD Young America be granted the right to vote at 18 instead of 21? Have the great changes of the last 30 years advanced maturity . . . made Son and Sis ready for citizenship three years earlier than their parents? And would such honor and responsibility do more to keep Youth in line—and eliminate the traditional friction between parents and adolescent youngsters—than all our preachments and punishments?

The youngsters believe it would. Recently a nationwide survey by this department resulted in over 10,000 letters from teenage Americans, all clamoring for such recognition, letters as mature in reasoning as any adult argument.

All of which you'll probably pooh-pooh if you're over 40. "Plain nonsense, letting a lot of brats have the vote," you may snort. But don't be too sure. Before you continue the down-beat, lend an ear to a few statistics.

THE AVERAGE YOUNG AMERICAN OF DRAFT AGE IS TWO INCHES TALLER THAN HIS FATHER WAS, BACK IN 17, AND FIFTEEN POUNDS HEAVIER, AND HIS KNOWLEDGE OF HIMSELF AND HIS WORLD IS INCOMPARABLY WIDER.

These aren't theories. They are facts, established by exhaustive army tests, physical and mental. Nor should they be surprising facts. Modern Young Americans are the healthiest crop of humans this, or any other nation, has ever produced. They've had the most intelligent care even before birth. They've learned the value of fresh air, sunshine, balanced diets, exercise, personal cleanliness. Even the poorest have access to medical service of which their parents never dreamed.

The fact that the average age of an American life has increased by 16 years during the past 30 years, while our death and disease rate has sunk to an all-time low, is proof of enormous progress.

Mentally, Young America has enjoyed as superior opportunities as it has physically. Education no longer consists of the Three R's, nor is it confined to the Little Red Schoolhouse. Newspapers, radios, particularly the quiz features, movies, part-time jobs, modern Sunday schools, all give young Bill and Bess the answers . . . wise them up to their own and their country's problems . . . show them cause and consequence.

Watch a lad of eight assembling a radio, discussing automobiles, manipulating a movie machine. Already he knows more about mechanics than his grandfather ever did. And the same goes for his ten-year-old sister with her swimming championship, her aviatrix ambitions.

SO WHEN THE YOUNGSTERS TELL DAD AND MOM THAT THEY "DON'T UNDERSTAND" —"THINGS ARE DIFFERENT NOWADAYS"—THE CHANCES ARE, THEY MAY BE RIGHT!

That's a bitter pill for any parent to swallow, but it can't be ducked—nor can it be settled by roaring at Junior and ordering him to bed. That only ends in revolt—in Dead-End Kids.

IS IT POSSIBLE THAT WE HAVE "DEAD-END KIDS" BECAUSE WE OURSELVES HAVE DEAD-END IDEAS? IS OUR OWN LACK OF IMAGINATION AND UNDERSTANDING TO BLAME FOR MOST JUVENILE DELINQUENCY? AND WOULD THE PROBLEM BE LARGELY SOLVED IF WE'D GIVE YOUNG AMERICA THE RECOGNITION ITS NEW MATURITY DESERVES?

Think it over. And let's hear the results.

Timely Editorial

"Registered" Public Opinion.

Citizens of Scott county, Minn., irked about official toleration of commercialized gambling, adopted a new and effective technique for their campaign against it. By registered letter they sent to the sheriff accurate information about the location of the gambling places and the names of the proprietors.

The sheriff pigeonholed the letters, but here is the hook. He had to acknowledge receipt of them over his own signature. The letters carried convincing evidence of many violations of the law. Therefore Governor Stassen removed the sheriff from office.

The Minnesota plan of pinning the badge of responsibility for bad conditions upon indifferent, inefficient or timid law enforcement officers, may have unsuspected possibilities. — Toledo Blade

As Others See It

Merely a Suggestion.

Summary of Week's Happenings

Training Extension, Tax Boosts, Price Control, Engage Attention

—By ASSOCIATED PRESS

MILITARY TRAINEES with an eye on Washington doings saw their originally definite period of army life becoming definitely indefinite as congress mulled extension of the 12-month service span.

The house and senate military committees okayed almost identical legislation to keep selectees, national guardsmen, reserve officers and enlisted men on the job for more than a year.

Senator Wheeler (D., Mont.), a leader of opposition to the approved draft extension plan, suggested instead "a professional army with high morale" in which selectees and enlisted men would start at $100 a month—$70 of it in U. S. bonds.

Fresh from his "battle of the postcards," Wheeler held an apology from Secretary of War Stimson. When Wheeler distributed cards urging recipients to ask congress to keep the country out of war, some found their way to soldiers. Stimson asserted the action came "very near the line of subversive activity. . . ." He later said he was "sorry," that he did not believe Wheeler had intended to circularize camps.

Taxes to Be Tripled.

There were all sorts of howls about the $3,529,200,000 tax bill—as it reached the house floor for a three-day debate — even including some that the mandatory joint income provision of the measure would cause an increase in the divorce.

While the average American figured his bill for all federal taxes soon would be tripled, Chairman Doughton (D. N. C.) of the house ways and means committee warned that "we're not at the end of this tax road yet."

Congress seemed to agree with the president that something ought to be done to regulate prices and rents to check inflation.

A 3.4% rise in the cost of living during the past three months was said to be behind FDR's request.

At Home

Warns of Rationing.

Sadly, Petroleum Coordinator Harold Ickes shook his head as he studied reports of gasoline consumption in eastern states during the week ending July 26. He had asked motorists to make a 33 1-3% cut. Instead sales rose 1,500,000 gallons over the preceding week.

"Even an incorrigible optimist like the average American cannot regard this as compliance," Ickes sighed. He again made his appeal and backed it up by calling on oil companies to close 100,000 service stations in the east 12 hours a day starting August 3.

Careful Nucky.

A newspaper once published a picture of Enoch "Nucky" Johnson, Atlantic City's GOP boss, walking with Al Capone on the Atlantic City broadwalk. Years later when he was asked to pose for a newspaper picture he replied: "Nothing doing. Some photographer caught me with Al Capone once. From now on I'm being careful."

He was not careful enough, however, to escape the same fate as Capone. Last week-end a federal jury convicted him of evading income taxes on $124,800 alleged received for protecting numbers operations.

This Is Ohio

One of the recent developments in Ohio is the introduction of conservation education and the summer conservation laboratory. It is the assembling of a group of teachers in a field station to lay foundations for teaching this subject.

The course is conducted at Zaleski State forest and included field observations, laboratory demonstrations, group discussions, and lectures on methods of teaching conservation of all natural resources. The "school in the forest" is open from June 16 to July 23.

The program will be administered by the college of education, Ohio State University, with the following universities cooperating: Bowling Green, Miami, Kent State and Ohio University.

Everyday Poem

—By GEORGE ELLISTON

My City.

You are two cities to me, my
Own much loved city, you
Are this, a shrine within my heart,
My love and dreaming, too.

How many times in distance as
Your shining towers appeared
Have I made deep obeisance to
Your charm as I have neared.

How many times, just being here
Within your confines brought
Me comfort that I sorely craved,
In vain elsewhere have sought.

You are not altogether fair,
My city, yet I see
No faults because you are so dear,
And love and dreams to me.

"pep talk" or perhaps he had reason to fear that Germany still planned to invade England this year despite the Russian campaign. At any rate, Churchill warned Britain's armed forces to be "at concert pitch by Sept. 1."

And as a reminder to those Britons who might feel that Britain could now take it easy, he said:

"Although there may be profound and encouraging changes in the situation, our own final and commanding responsibilities remain undiminished. . . ."

He sad the U. S. was "on the verge of war."

China's Internal Truce.

The ill-feeling between Chungking officials and Chinese Communists has occasionally produced open warfare. Now, with Russia fighting Germany, these significant moves have been reported:

1 A Japanese newspaper in North China reported that Chungking and Chinese Communists have reached a compromise agreement whereby the Reds agree to fight under Chiang Kai-shek's regime to the end and disband their own Fourth Route army. Chungking, in return, will subsidize the Reds by more than 2,000,000 Chinese dollars monthly and extend slightly the area under Communist control.

2 Joseph Stalin and Chiang were reported in London to have arranged for China to put "half a million or more" soldiers in the field alongside Soviet forces in the event that Japan attacks Russia's rear.

In Short

Flew: Harry Hopkins, lease-lend supervisor, flew by plane from London to Russians' capital. As the president envoy, he visited Joseph Stalin, who gave him a letter addressed to FDR.

Named: Rexford Tugwell, an early New Deal adviser, as governor of Puerto Rico. He succeeds Guy Swope, who becomes director of the division of territories and island possessions in the interior department.

Moved: Senator George (D. Ga.) from the chairmanship of the foreign relations committee to the chairmanship of the finance committee. George was succeeded, in turn, by Senator Connally (D. Tex.), a strong backer of the president's foreign policy.

Perfected: A device called the radio alarm clock which could bring emergency warnings into thousands of homes at the same time even though radios were turned off, by the Radio Corporation of America. Special equipment would have to be installed in standard sets. Defense officials believe it may replace sirens as air raid warnings.

Latin America: Nazis On Defense

GERMANS were having trouble holding their own along the Latin American propaganda front. And as in the past when they have been in tight spots, they unloosed torrid counter-offensives. There were two main sectors:

In Argentina—An equivalent to the Dies committee in Argentina had seized a package containing a 500-pound German portable radio transmitter, and alleged propaganda and coded documents.

The huge package entered South America at Brazil and was flown to Lima, Peru, via Buenos Aires, at a dollar a pound. Germans insisted the package was "diplomatic baggage" and thus was immune to inspection, but Peruvians insisted that only 44 pounds of diplomatic baggage could be admitted without being opened.

Rather than permit inspection, a German attache at Lima returned to Buenos Aires with the package. There the Argentine committee grabbed it, after terming it an air express parcel not entitled to immunity.

Berlin made the "strongest" protest against this "crass violation of international law." It asked Argentina to punish the "persons responsible for stealing" the package, which it said contained three diplomatic pouches.

After the Argentine foreign office nervously agreed with the German protest, the committee gave up the materials.

In Bolivia—Involved in the alleged Nazi plot recently squelched here was a letter said to have been written to the German minister to Bolivia (now expelled) by Major Elias Belmonte, Bolivian military attache in Berlin. The letter discussed the conspiracy to overthrow the Bolivian government.

Germany's foreign office called in newsmen. Belmonte read a statement in Spanish. He declared upon his "word of honor as an officer" that he had not written the letter. The Germans then dispatched notes to all South American governments alleging that the letter was falsified.

Berlin's Lokal Anzeiger said that President Roosevelt "in his hate for Germany . . . has turned forger."

Welles Repudiates Clark.

Without mentioning either of the Latin American quarrels with Germany, Sumner Welles, acting secretary of state, said swift action by American republics had "nipped dangerous plans of the totalitarians in the bud."

Meanwhile Senator D. Worth Clark, Idaho Democrat opposing the administration's foreign policy, proposed that the U. S. "take over control" of Latin America and Canada.

Welles quickly dismissed Clark's statement as unbelievable.

HOROSCOPE

For Sunday, August 3

SUNDAY'S horoscope shows a high degree of activity, possibly in the direction of stimulating old lagging, static or crystallized conditions. Such pressure might be applied successfully to affairs of church, the clergy, labor, old investments or real estate, which need effective stimuli or the application of bold, new and determined measures for restoring to productive and profitable basis. Definite change in technique may be necessary but be careful not to be trapped in snares, intrigue or duplicity.

If It Is Your Birthday

Those whose birthday it is may plan for a decidedly active and enterprising year, with the determination to put constructive force and tactics to work on old, congested and stagnant conditions, business, properties or labor situations. With fresh ideas, practical plans and procedures there should be worthwhile and profitable growth, with renewed foundations for progress and prosperity. But be alert to suspicious affiliations, pitfalls and intrigues.

A child born on this day should have much energy, initiative and constructive ability, supplemented by hard work and sound judgment, to assure it a successful career. However, it may be easily imposed on because of its large and lavish impulses.

For Monday, August 4

Monday's astrological forecast is for a day of much excitement, thrills and adventures in almost all phases of human relations and ambitions. Possibly the romantic, social, domestic and sentimental affiliations will provide high dramatic satisfactions, although business and creative expression of some uncommon order will supply pleasure and gratification. Seek such goals.

Those whose birthday it is may anticipate a year of unusual experiences and gratifications, with business, social, romantic and cultural associations furnishing high spots of drama, adventure and accomplishment. The mind and the emotions will be pitched to exceptional expression and pleasure.

A child born on this day should be exceptionally talented in out-of-the-ordinary ways, and should attain a happy, constructive and worthy position in life.

Government action was taken after it became apparent that imports from Japan, America's chief source of supply, would dwindle rapidly or cease altogether as the resut of the economic warfart between the countries.

It was anticipated that Japan would retaliate this country's tightening of control over oil shipments to the Tokyo government by shutting off silk supplies to the U. S.

THEATERS

Lively Comedy.

Bette Davis deserts her highly charged dramatic roles to get batted about by James Cagney in one of the season's liveliest comedies, "The Bride Came C. O. D.," showing at the Ohio. Grounded in a ghost town with an aviator, who kidnaped her from under the very nose of her bridegroom-to-be, Bette is forced to pit her wits against an arrogant young man bent upon collecting a small fortune by returning her to her irate father instead of to her sweetheart. Eugene Pallette plays the father, Harry Davenport, the ghost town innkeeper and Stuart Erwin, a gossip columnist.

Disney's Newest.

"The Reluctant Dragon," Walt Disney's new picture opening Sunday at the Madison, takes the audiences into the Disney studio and shows how animated cartoons are made. Along with the audience go Robert Benchley and Frances Gifford as slightly bewildered studio visitors who are escorted through a fantastic jumble of animations and sound effects. The picture combines actual motion picture technique with animation sequences in which Disney gives fans a peep at some of his future production. Six novelties are screened including a satire, "How to Ride a Horse." Carole Landis is featured in "Dance Hall," the second picture.

* * *

Louisiana Comedy.

Sparkling comedy-drama of life in colonial Louisiana, "The Flame of New Orleans," opening Sunday at the Park gives Marlene Dietrich the opportunity for a dual role. As a continental adventuress, posing as a European noblewoman, she is forced into the part of a second imposter so as not to betray her first pose. Her second pretense is that of a light lady in spangles who falls in love with a river skipper. Roland Young plays the millionaire and Bruce Cabot the part of the skipper. Andy Devine and Mischa Auer are also cast. "Petticoat Politics," a Higgins family picture, the second attraction, has Ruth Donnelly and Roscoe Karns.

Outlaw Thrilerl.

Story of a famous outlaw's attempts to clean up the toughest town in the old west is told in "Billy the Kid In Sante Fe," starring Bob Steele at the Majestic. He starts after Charles King, in the role of a competitor, and is assisted in his mission by two pals played by Al St. John and Rex Lease. A penal colony, where live the outcasts of the earth, furnishes the locale for "I Was a Prisoner on Devil's Island," the co-attraction. Featuring Edward Ciannelli, as a black-hearted doctor in charge of the island, the picture has Sally Eilers in the role of his wife and Donald Woods as an American seaman imprisoned through a quirk of fate. The fight for freedom by the latter pair motivates the action of the story.

Musical Spectacle.

"Zeigfeld Girl," the spectacular musical show glorifying the girls made famous by Zeigfeld's "Follies," opens Sunday at the Ritz with James Stewart, Lana Turner and Hedy Lamarr and Judy Garland in the leading roles. "Nevada City," with Roy Rogers is the co-attraction.

The guests honored Mrs. Willsey and Miss Logan with a shower of bathroom gifts and the hostesses gave gifts of china.

"Pitfalls of Love"

(A Sequel to Marriage Meddlers)

By ADELE GARRISON

There was something so significant in Stephen Redfield's words that I could only stare at him.

"Do you mean," I said sharply, "that you believe Jack Bickett to be somewhere else than in South America? Then why—"

"Why ask you?" he returned coolly. "For the best of all reasons. We are not sure of the information we have received. It may be true; it may not. We wish to check it with the people most apt to know—his family. It has not been feasible to get in touch with his wife. Other points of contact have failed. We had to do the best we could, so we decided to ask you about it."

Who Were the Accomplices?

A sentence and a word were beating against my brain.

"Other points of contact have failed."

Did that mean Marion?

Then, that oft-repeated word "We." I put my question concerning that into words.

"Just whom do you mean by 'we' and why do they wish to find Jack Bickett?" I asked.

His eyes were suddenly evasive, but his answer was prompt.

"It's an organization in which I have some stock. They promote mines. They've heard of Bickett's work, and wish to get him to do some work for them."

The story was so lame that it was ludicrous. But I had no way of getting my disbelief over to him except to give him an incredulous stare, which had no effect whatever upon him. He stared at me in return and reiterated his question.

Redfield Makes a Threat.

"Then neither you nor anyone you know has any idea of Jack Bickett's whereabouts," he said.

"Not the slightest idea." I said. Then I paused for an instant, and added slowly:

"That is the truth. I give you my word. But if I had such information, I would not give it to you."

For an instant his eyes were ophidian, and I had the familiar sensation of ice trickling down my spine which comes to me in time of danger. But the next instant he got himself in hand and smiled at me.

"That, of course, would be your privilege, but—it might be unwise," he said. "And I knew he had not been able to resist the temptation to utter this veiled threat.

Wants to Ask a Favor.

"That, of course, would be my misfortune." I retorted coolly, and he spoke again slowly.

"I wish to ask a great favor of you, Mrs. Graham."

I stiffened warily, for something in his voice called a warning to me which he did not intend me to hear.

"I am afraid I shall have to hear it first," I said stiffly.

"Before I ask it," he said, and in his voice now were the nuances which make him so fascinating upon the stage, "may I tell you how very grateful I am to you for your prompt action this evening? I saw how you managed Noel when he started across the floor, intent upon tearing me apart and feeding the pieces to the fishes."

He laughed lightly and went on.

Noel Knocks at the Door.

"Poor Noel! He certainly made a spectacle of himself, didn't he? I know how disgusted you must have been. But it would have been too bad to let him go on. I should have been compelled to turn him over my knee and administer the spanking he should have had long ago, to take that vile temper out of him."

His tone was so smugly superior and condescending that I had hard work to control my hands, which fairly itched to smack that smug smile from his face. But it vanished without any act of mine, when an imperative knock sounded on the door, and Noel's voice called excitedly, but in subdued tones.

"Aunt Madge, let me in, please."

CHAPTER XXIV

"Good! I see you're making yourself right at home," Malone said.

Doris did not reply and the man who called himself her father sat down on the old-fashioned wooden chair and took a piece of paper and a pencil from his pocket.

"And now you're going to do a little letter-writing for me."

Doris looked at his sharp features, made strangely sinister by plastic surgery. Her father! She recoiled from the thought with loathing.

He shoved the paper and pencil on the table. "Okay. Let's get going."

"What do you want me to say?" Doris said coldly, without moving.

"You're going to write a letter to your boy friend and tell him to come through with that twenty-five thousand."

"I can't do that," she said calmly.

For a moment she expected him to strike her. Instead he smiled and said, "Oh yes you can—and will!"

Their eyes crossed like the flash of steel in the dim lamplight.

"I won't!" she repeated. "Nothing you can do to me will make me do that."

Malone rose and left the room

* * *

Doris wondered at the ease with which she had won her small triumph. Would Malone really accept her refusal without trying to force her? She lay on the bed exhausted. She had no idea what time it was. The tightly boarded windows kept out the light and her room remained in shadowy darkness except for the flickering light of the lamp.

Why was her father so sure that Jimmy would pay for her release? Did he have something on Jimmy, that he could force him to do it? Or was he counting on his pity? Doris doubted if pity could be worth twenty-five thousand dollars? Jimmy would probably turn the whole thing over to the police. It was not his problem what happened to Doris Newton, and there was no reason why he should hold himself responsible.

Doris realized that she had made a grave error in not turning her father over to the authorities when the ship docked.

As the hours passed she became faint with hunger. She had eaten only toast and coffee at Bonnie's and she was weak from the shock and strain of the kidnaping. The room was chilly. Doris drew the collar of her coat tightly about her throat and pulled the thin quilt over her feet. She could hear the crackle of a wood fire in the living room but its warmth could not reach her. She was determined not to sleep; she sat stiffly upright trying to keep her heavy eyelids open. Several times she felt her head jerk, and brought herself back to consciousness by sheer will power.

Nevertheless, Malone looking in sometime later, found her asleep. But there was no pity in his glance at her pale face and frail body wrapped in the inadequate quilt.

"She'll come across," he told Joe. He locked the door again behind them and the men returned to the fire.

When Doris awoke it was pitch-dark. The lamp had gone out. With a cry of fright, she sat up staring into the darkness trying to remember where she was. Cautiously she slipped from the bed and tried the handle of the door. It was locked. She felt her way to the bureau, but the cigarets were gone and there were no matches left to light the lamp, even if the oil had not burned out. Hunger gnawed at her. Her left arm, wrenched by Malone when she had tried to escape from the car, hung stiffly at her side. Her teeth chattered uncontrollably from the cold that penetrated her whole body. Weakly she huddled upon the bed and waited.

Nothing happened. There was no sound from without. She slept and awoke countless times. Sometimes she dragged herself about the room trying to find some possible means of escape. Often she went to the door, straining her ears in vain for a sound She had no idea how many hours, even days, might have passed in this way. Joe and Malone must have left her alone. The silence was unbearable.

"They've left me alone to die." Doris thought hysterically but her tears ended in a burst of violent coughing. She beat her fists against the door and cried out, but no reply came.

Time went on slowly. She could hear the November wind howling around the corner of the cabin. How long had she been here? The shadows of the room became only a faint blur as minutes passed into hours.

* * *

It seemed days later when the silence was shattered by the sound of heavy footsteps. Dragging herself from bed to door, Doris waited, her heart beating wildly, hopefully, but when the door was unlocked it admitted George Malone. She looked at him dully.

He produced the paper and pencil again. "Come on, kid! Write the note and I'll give you something to eat."

Doris wanted to scream. Food! What else mattered? What else would ever matter? Her trembling fingers seized the pencil.

"Okay." Malone directed. "Now write what I tell you."

Doris scarcely heard his words, or realizing their meaning, as she scrawled obediently on the piece of paper. Vaguely she heard his directions where to leave the money, his threats as to Doris if Jimmy Allen refused to pay. When she had finished, Malone went through her handbag and found a handkerchief on which her initials were embroidered.

"I'll send this along as a souvenir," her father told her.

Doris paid no attention. She sat motionless.

Malone kept his promise. He brought her a cup of hot soup and some bread, and when he returned to the kitchen he left the door open.

Doris drank the soup ravenously, and felt a little warmth flow through her body. Joe had lit the fire again in the living room and, leaning against the wall for support, she made her way to it. The men did not object, so Doris stayed close to the glowing blaze, feeling her numbed muscles relax.

* * *

Joe disappeared and Doris supposed he had gone to mail the letter. She had little curiosity at this moment as to what would happen next. To have food and to be warm were the only important things now.

"What day is it?" she asked, feeling that weeks must have passed during the time she had been locked in her room.

"Thursday," Malone said, without glancing at her.

Thursday! Only three days since they had brought her here.

Several days passed and nothing of importance occurred. Doris was allowed the run of the cabin now, though she noticed that Joe kept a gun beside him on the table. However, Doris had no intention of trying to escape. She was grateful for food and warmth. But in spite of these comforts her cough continued to grow worse.

Neither Joe nor her father paid the slightest attention to her. One of them was usually absent, and the other ignored her entirely.

But on the fifth day Doris began to wonder about her ransom.

She could hear the two men talking in the kitchen; their voices sounded excited. Her mind tried to recall the note Malone had forced her to write to Jimmy. Had he mentioned a day as the deadline for the money? Could this be it?

Joe was playing solitaire. His gun, as usual, was on the table beside him.

"Where's he going?" Doris asked.

Joe smiled but did not answer.

* * *

Doris paced up and down the floor of the cabin and waited for Malone to come back. Instinct told her that something was about to happen.

But when he returned he went into the kitchen with Joe without saying a word.

Doris could not stand the suspense. Running to the door, she pushed it open and demanded, "What's happened?"

Malone's face slowly took on a crooked smile. "I'm very fond of you at this moment," he said with mock amiableness. "You've been worth exactly twenty-five thousand dollars to me."

"You mean Jimmy paid?" Doris could not believe it.

"He paid. And how he paid! Every cent!"

Doris went back into the living room. Jimmy had paid twenty-five thousand dollars ransom—for her! Why would he do this if he didn't care? He could have turned the case over to the police. Did her welfare really matter to him more than she had thought? Her father had insinuated that they had "put one over" on her. Could it be possible that Jimmy Allen loved her—in spite of all circumstances to the contrary?

Even if she could not marry him, perhaps never see him again, her heart thrilled to the hope that perhaps Jimmy Allen did care a little. Perhaps their love, even though impossible of fulfillment, had been real. She had not dared to hope that such a powerful attraction had drawn Jimmy to her—and her to him. Infatuation, Bonnie had wanted to believe. No—not infatuation!

Malone came back into the living room with Joe. Both men wore hats and overcoats.

"Where are we going?" Doris asked hopefully.

But Malone laughed.

"You're not going anywhere unless you go under your own power!"

"But Jimmy paid you the money! Aren't you going to let me go?"

"Sure. Go ahead. But I'm not going to take you. By the time you get out of these woods we'll be too far away for it to matter."

"You can't do that!" Doris cried. "You—" but her protest ended in a fit of coughing.

Malone laughed as he opened the door. Doris could see that it was twilight and that a light snow was falling.

As the two men got into the car Doris ran to the doorway and watched them in silence. Her father put his head out of the window.

"I'll be seeing you," he said. "Give my love to your boy friend."

* * *

Doris stared after the disappearing car but the cold wind drove her back to the fireside. She was free to leave—but how? And where would she go? As far as she had seen from the doorway lay trees and underbrush.

"I can follow the tracks of the car," Doris thought with sudden inspiration.

She went into the bedroom for her hat, wrapped a scarf about her throat and ran from the cabin. She could see faint tire tracks left by her father's car. The snow had formed a thin crust on the frozen earth and Doris ran through the twilight, without a backward glance.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

"The Authority on Authorities"

TWICE AS PROMISING

Players who have not examined the two combinations comparatively are prone to consider an A-Q as the ideal kind of tenace for purposes of trying to win a finesse. They look upon the A-J-10 as a sort of secondary proposition. Actually, if you are in a position to make two leads toward it, the A-J-10 is three times as likely to produce a finessing trick. To win with the first combination, you must find the K right where you want it. To win with the second, you can find either the K or Q, or both, in the hand which plays first to your lead, and you fail to win an extra trick with it only when the fourth alternative prevails, with both of those cards in the hand which plays last.

With this kind of bidding, West could easily place the main spade holding in his partner's hand, so led his spade 9. South quickly counted up tricks. He saw two in spades, one each in the red suits and four in clubs, a total of eight. Needing only one more to make his contract, he decided to try the heart finesse, so took the opening spade trick in dummy and led to the heart Q. It lost to the K. Back came the second spade, South letting East win and taking the third, discarding a diamond from his own hand. No matter what he did, he had no way now to gain that vital ninth trick, so was down one.

If South had known the chances were 3 to 1 he could pick up the ninth trick in diamonds and only even money he could do it in hearts, he would have finessed the diamond J to the second trick. This would have lost, but, after he got back in the dummy with the other high spade, he could have finessed the diamond 10 successfully and made his contract.

Braves Push Bus Home After Trouncing Tiffin Hens

Sport Podge by REX HESS

Good news from Shelby, Miss.!

Two Mansfield boys who are cousins to each other, but not to rival batsmen, recently formed the battery for a perfect game.

Private Bob Fisher toed the hill for Special Troops team in the Shelby Regimental Softball league, and Staff Sergeant Gayle Owings got behind the platter, and between them what the 145th Infantry batters did didn't matter.

For Private Bob set the Infantry down without a hit or a run, winning 2 to 0, and striking out 11 men.

* * *

The no-hit game was the fourth straight triumph for the cousin-battery, and in the four games Bob chalked up a strikeout total of 47.

But the Merriwell story doesn't end there.

The two Mansfield boys drove in the only two runs scored by their team.

So the soldiers play softball, eh!

* * *

Those who say softball is for Sis
Will get an argument in Ol' Miss.

* * *

Mansfield baseball fans have a busy week-end and more coming up, and so have I.

Tonight the Tiffin Mud Hens come to town, and tomorrow afternoon the Lima Pandas tangle with Mansfield's Braves at the Fairground yard.

Monday night Satchel Paige and his world champion colored Kansas City Monarchs show their wares at the Fairground against a strengthened Liberty Park aggregation.

And Tuesday night the Braves return for a battle with the Fremont Green Sox. We get Wednesday night off. I think.

* * *

Kind-hearted souls, and those who may just wish to make conversation, ask me now and then: "How is your golf?"

And it becomes necessary for me to tell them that with all this baseball and softball, and in-between-time the rain, I haven't had a chance in a long time to get out and see how my golf was coming along.

But the last time I looked at it, it was a very sorry thing indeed, and I shouldn't be in any too great a hurry to look at it again.

All this leads up to the little ditty below. Excuse it please.

* * *

Will I never shoot a golf again,
In between the games of ball and rain,
On a hill that's high and dry
Underneath a summer sky,
Will I never, will I never golf again?

Will I never shank a shot again,
Will I not be not so hot again?
But then I should fret or care,
For if I am never there,
Guess I'll never, yes, I'll never golf again.

Bates Candies Defeat DeMilos

With two matches postponed between the two leading teams in The News-Journal Women's Golf league at Possum Run yesterday, interest centered in the meeting of the two trailing teams as Bates Candies defeated DeMilo Salon 2 to 1.

Golden Russell scored a 1 to 0 win over Meder Recreation to boost their league lead to three points.

Jim Bagby Picked to Stop A's

Holds Three Victories Over Red Hot Club.

PHILADELPHIA — (AP) — Jim Bagby, who has trimmed the Athletics thrice this year, is the Indians' choice today for a conquest of the red-hot A's.

* * *

Philadelphia has won 9 of its last 11 games and now holds a first division berth. Chubby Dean or Steve Babich will go to the mound for a try at extending the victory streak.

* * *

The Tribe has two days of rest in readiness for the three-game series, which ends tomorrow with a synthetic double-header.

Current speculation in the club covers the point of who will be dropped ere long to make room for the second addition to Cleveland's pitching staff — Charles (Red) Embree, 21-year-old right-hander whom the Indians purchased yesterday for an undisclosed sum.

There is a new mosquito causing trouble in the National league these days and it's the last insect you ever would suspect—a species known as the Phillies.

* * *

The Philadelphia club has a permanent address in the cellar of the senior circuit, but here in August when it should be tending to its own business it has fluttered into the limelight by winning several games in a short span of time.

* * *

Most important, it nosed out the St. Louis Cardinals, 2-1, in 11 innings last night to cut the Redbirds' first-place margin to a single game over the Brooklyn Dodgers, who nosed out the Chicago Cubs, 5-4.

Previously the Phillies had split even in four-game series with both the Cincinnati Reds and the Cubs.

* * *

The Dodgers added three new players to their roster yesterday and used all of them in achieving their triumph over Chicago. Johnny Allen, veteran American league pitcher obtained from the St. Louis Browns, started on the mound and got credit for the victory although he was forced out in the seventh.

* * *

Tom Drake, fresh from Nashville, relieved him. Tom Tatum, an outfielder who also came up from Nashville, started in centerfield and batted in Brooklyn's first run. The chief power in the Dodgers' drive, however, came from four hits by Dolph Camilli.

The Cincinnati Reds held onto their slim third-place margin by beating the Boston Braves, 5-1, behind the two-hit hurling of Johnny Vander Meer.

The Pittsburgh Pirates, striving hard to oust the Reds, roughhoused the New York Giants, 6-3, clinching the game with a four-run third inning when Vince DiMaggio singled with the bases loaded.

Only two contests were scheduled in the American league and in one of them the New York Yankees overwhelmed the St. Louis Browns, 9-0, to take a tighter grip on first place.

The Washington Senators trimmed the Chicago White Sox, 8-2, to push Chicago a little farther out of the first division. Dutch Leonard kept eight hits scattered.

Slightly Upset

Fans Due for Treat Monday

Satchel Urged to Pull Old Rube Waddell Trick.

When the Kansas City Monarchs, world colored champions, step out on Fairgrounds park here Monday night at 8:30 to play Joe Atton's Liberty Parks, an exhibition baseball game, fans of Mansfield and vicinity are in for a rare treat.

* * *

Of paramount interest will be the appearance on the mound for at least part of the game of Satchel Paige, the glamor boy of sepia baseball. Paige comes preceded by so much national publicity that every baseball fan in the city knows all about him and his exploits on the playing field.

* * *

In addition to his pitching ability, "Ole Satchmo" is noted for his ability to "put on the show" while coaching at first base.

Efforts are being made to have Satchel pull his favorite stunt wherein he intentionally walks three men, calls in his outfield and then proceeds to breeze three men in a row. Sounds impossible? Well, Satchel seldom fails. Rube Waddell was supposed to have originated the stunt, but the records are not clear.

The Monarch combine itself is one of the most famous in the annals of sepia ball. Always well uniformed and well drilled, the Monarchs look more like a pennant winning major league outfit than a high class traveling team which has toured the nation for 42 years.

* * *

Baseball fans who appreciate genuine ability will derive a thrill from watching such talented stars as Hilton Smith, Ted Strong, Willard Brown, Rainey Bibbs, Jimmy Williams, Newt Allen, "Bucky O'Neill, and Satchel Paige go through their paces.

* * *

Then, too, the Monarch players combine a great sense of humor with their stellar play, the result being a pleasant evening for the cash customers.

Manager Joe Atton of the Liberty Parks has been practicing his team overtime in anticipation of forcing the invaders to play at top speed. Skipper Atton has added some recognized stars to the Parks' personnel and fans can depend on the locals playing "all out" in an effort to win. Just what professional pitcher will hurl for Atton is still a deep, dark mystery and may not be revealed until game time Monday.

Cop Swim Titles In A. A. U. Meet

* * *

Betsy Blake captured both women's free style events, with a time of 1:16 at 100 meters and 2:48 at 200 meters.

Jack Hill of Springfield won both the 200-meter and the 400-meter free style events for men, the former in 2:28.9 and the latter in 5:37.9. He also was second in the 100-meter free style to Ed Pope of Yale university, who won in 1:03.9.

Billy Conn To Meet His In-Law

To Face the Music Upon Completion of Picture.

By ROBERT MYERS

HOLLYWOOD—(AP)—Billy Conn is going home to face the music, and meet "Pop"—at last.

"Pop" is the Pittsburgh fighter's new father-in-law, Jimmy Smith, who once announced that he would punch Billy in the nose if he married his pretty daughter, Mary Lou.

* * *

Well, Billy married Mary Lou in an elopement, anyhow, soon after the warning, and shortly after he had been knocked out by Joe Louis in round 13 of their heavyweight championship bout.

* * *

Then the two came to Hollywood, Billy to star in a motion picture "The Pittsburgh Kid," and Mary Lou to see the sights—and honeymoon.

The picture is just about completed and the Conns, Mr. and Mrs., and his fight manager, Smiling Johnny Ray, are scheduled to leave for Pittsburgh Sunday.

At one banquet given for Billy, he got up to say a few words. These were the words:

"I'm not much of a speaker, and I guess Republic Studios discovered in the first two days I wasn't an actor. But I sure am a runner.

"Ask my father-in-law!"

* * *

The studio swears Billy isn't near the worst made-over-actor who ever stepped out of a prize ring. In fact, one rival studio, much more important than Republic, put in a bid for another Conn camera appearance.

* * *

"I'm homesick. I want to go home, me and Mary Lou," said Billy. "Then—" and he heaved a sigh, "I guess we'll have it out with 'Pop'."

The News-Journal City tennis tournament moved closer to the championship in the main division, the men's singles, when Bob Keefe moved into the semi-finals with a long, hard-fought victory over Bob Enos.

* * *

In their match at Maple Lake Keefe took the first set 6-4, but Enos came back to bag the second on the same count, 6-4. Keefe outlasted Enos to take the third and deciding set 6-3

* * *

Bob Spear and Watty Slabaugh are scheduled to meet this afternoon at Woodlawn to complete the semi-final round, and the winner of this match will tangle with Lowell Bourns tomorrow afternoon at Woodlawn.

Keefe will meet Thornton Moore in the semi-finals at Johns Park Sunday afternoon.

* * *

* * *

Ghezzi-Wood In Title Match

Battle For Golfdom's Unofficial World Title.

GIRARD, O.—(AP)—The nation's two top champions teed off today in a 72-hole battle for golfdom's unofficial world title, with blond Craig Wood the favorite over swarthy Vic Ghezzi.

* * *

Winner of the National Open and Masters' tournaments, Wood was given an edge in the $2,500 winner-take-all match out of respect for his experience, powerful drives and long-range irons.

* * *

Ghezzi, who surprised the experts by beating Byron Nelson in the P. G. A. finals, based his hopes on a deadly short game and a magic putter.

* * *

Wood, who will be 40 this year, once tutored the 29-year-old Deal, N. J., star and knows well the task ahead.

"Vic is at the peak of his game now," the open king said, "and he always was 'poison' with his putter. But the way I am playing now I believe I could beat anyone in the world. If my putts start dropping I'm liable to wind up with some 62's in this match."

Ghezzi merely commented: "I'm satisfied with my first trip around."

The pro champion referred to yesterday's tuneup, when he shot a one-under-par 69. Wood meanwhile added a 68 to his 65 of Thursday.

Fred Corcoran, who as P. G. A. tournament manager is probably the best informed observer in the country, picked Wood to win.

TAPPANS DEFEAT ISALYS IN COMMERCIAL LEAGUE

Tappan's softball club set down Isaly's 18-2 in a Commercial league tilt at North Lake park last night.

Durig and Weber led the Tappan uprising, Weber pushing two long ones out of the lot, as the victors came from behind to put the game away with a 13 run barrage in the eighth inning.

Hill and Dickson did the heavy stick work for the losing club.

O. P. S., Demolays Win League Tilts

The Ohio Public Service subdued the Schoolmasters 9-6 and the DeMolay softball club defeated St. Peter's Alumni 12-8 in Club league tilts last night.

Oswalt led the O. P. S. batters with three out of four as the victors outhit the Schoolmasters 14 to 11. Boss and Harper connected with circuit clouts for the winning club.

Fendrick topped the losing tickmen with two out of three.

Two big inning, the third and fourth, were enough for the DeMolay's to pile up ten of their 12 runs as the Alumni bowed to the attack 12-8.

The Moose club defeated the Bankers in a six inning fray 23-6. Brown and Cochrane were the batteries for the victors, while Moorhead, with Houston, was on the mound for the hapless Bankers.

Beating Lorraine Fischer, of New York, in the 100-yard free style event at an American Athletic Union meet in Oreland, Pa., Patricia McWhorter (above) of Newark, N. J., successfully defended her A.A.U. title, setting a new pool record of one minute four and seven-tenths seconds.

Byers Hurls Four-Hit Game to Win 9 to 1

Clowson and Coleman Chased from Park by Umpire Dewey Stover

IF THE Mansfield Braves appear just a bit weary tonight as they go through their diamond chores at the Fairground against the Tiffin Mud Hens, don't blame them too much. It won't be because they don't like their work or are laying down on the job.

Some of them will be arm and leg weary from pushing the Braves' bus home last night from Tiffin, or as near home as they could make it. Others got home from Plymouth by the thumb method and will be a bit more sprightly than their mates tonight.

* * *

The Braves were not too rested up before starting their homeward journey, having staged a bit of a track meet in smothering the Hens 9 to 1 behind the four-hit hurling of Chuck Byers.

* * *

Chuck fanned 14 Mud Hens and allowed no one more than one bingle. Dragovich nicked him for a double, and Weigle, Taylor and Boone each for a single. He walked six during the evening's entertainment.

Tiffin took the lead with its lone run in the second frame but Mansfield won the game in the fifth when the Braves pushed over two runs, which was all Byers needed.

Now Chuck is a guy who likes a comfortable lead to go on, and seldom gets it, but this time the Braves accommodated him with a seven-run splurge in the sixth and from there on it was a breeze for the Chucker.

Bill Reinka got the only extra-base blow for the Braves, his specialty, a double. All but Bobby Ankrum got in on the 12-hit parade, with Bobby TeStruth getting three for five, and Harry Siegbert and Bill Salem each two for four.

* * *

The Braves may have lost the services of Manager Alex Clowson for five days. Umpire Dewey Stover chased Clowson from the game for arguing, and when Clowson went to the dugout Stover gave him just one minute to get out of the ball park.

* * *

Then Clowson went up in the stands, and Stover chased him from there. On a similar run-in with Umpire Art Haag earlier in the season Clowson was suspended for five days.

After Clowson's departure, Pitcher Jim Coleman, sitting by the Braves' dugout, started riding Stover and he also was chased from the park.

Now back to the bus where the boys spent most of the night. But let Bus Driver Mose McCullough tell this story:

"To start with I nursed the bus the whole way to Tiffin," says Mose. "Then, coming home, the bus started acting up again. We would go a way and then stop and the boys would push and we would move again. At Plymouth five of the boys hitch-hiked home. We stopped for good about three miles from home, so Alex and the rest of the boys thumbed a ride in and sent the wrecker out and towed us in to the barn. Got home at 3:30."

"Woods and Waters"

By YUNCKER BROS.

One of nature's many mysteries. Both the avocets and the curlews, birds of the snipe family, have long bills designed to probe in soft mud for food . . . yet the avocets' bills curve upward and the curlews down.

Indian population of Michigan, prior to the time of the coming of the white man was estimated at around 10,000 by Henry Schoolcraft, early authority on the Indian. Today that same area gives sport, food or income to more than a million anglers, 2000 commercial fishermen, 170,000 deer hunters, 500,000 small game hunters, and 25,000 trappers.

* * *

With new thousands taking up fishing each year, it is becoming more and more essential that we look on the game as a sport, and not a means of getting meat. The trend everywhere is toward smaller and more sportsmanlike creel and bag limits.

Elk and deer of Glacier National Park spend their summers in the United States, and their winters in Canada. Florida chambers of commerce had better do something about this.

BERRIES IN DEMAND

ORONO, Me.—(INS)—Because European sources have been cut off by war, the berries of ground juniper may become a cash crop for some farmers, the College of Agriculture, University of Maine, revealed. The berries are in demand by drug concerns and an offer to purchase 25 tons of the fruit has been made by New York and New Hampshire firms. Market price is 30 to 35 cents a pound.

Rio Grande de Sul, most southern of Brazil's states, is known as the Texas of Brazil because of its rolling grass-grown pampas and an extensive cattle growing industry.

STOCK MARKET LEADERS TAKE TURN UPWARD

New Monthly Peak Reached In Iron Ore Shipments During July.

NEW YORK —(AP)— Leading stocks reached for moderately higher levels in today's early market transactions.

Up fractionally at a fairly active opening were N. Y. Central, General Motors, U. S. Steel, Sears Roebuck and Kennecott.

Market analysts noted estimates July iron ore shipments established a new monthly peak, exceeding the previous high recorded in May by 300,000 tons. The total was 11,390,488 tons compar·' with 10,789,929 in June and 10,433,488 in July last year. For 1941 to date ore movements have topped the 1940 period by 45 per cent.

Much interest was shown in reports federal authorities, in order to relieve the steel scrap shortage threatening production of steel needed for defense purposes, would suggest that the nation's railroads tear up hundreds, possibly thousands, of miles of unprofitable tracks.

JAPAN DEFIES U. S. ON AVIATION FUEL EMBARGO

Call Situation So Tense That Spark's Only Needed to Set Off Explosion.

clamped a full-fledged embargo on aviation fuel and drastically reduced the shipment of other oil supplies on which Japan depends for more than two-thirds of her needs.

Domei, the official Japanese news agency, said the measure was aimed directly at Japan, and Tokyo newspapers asserted that the United States was attempting to monopolize vital raw materials in the South seas on a preferred customer basis.

Japs Face 'Showdown' Because of Embargo

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Japan faced a showdown today in her program of expansion southward as President Roosevelt acted to embargo aviation fuel and drastically reduce other oil exports on which Japan depends for more than two-thirds of the gasoline and lubricants she needs.

Since Great Britain and the Dutch East Indies—the only other available major sources—have imposed stringent export control and financial restrictions on oil and other military necessities, petroleum authorities consider that Japan's war machine and industries must now run principally on hoarded and diminishing oil stocks.

The United States struck another severe economic blow at Japan when all silk stocks in this country were frozen, presumably for defense production, indicating that important control restrictions would severely cut down U. S. silk imports which have provided Japan with $100,000,000 cash or credits annually.

The president had previously set the stage for the drastic oil and silk orders by ordering the freezing of all Japanese assets in American territory, crippling Japan's trade with one of its last and biggest cash customers.

A week ago President Roosevelt had hinted that an oil embargo might be imposed—a move which he said had not been taken in the past because it would tend to force Japan to go to the East Indies for a new supply.

All moves were understood to have been taken to impress Japan with the United States' strong opposition to armed expansion southward, threatening American territory (the Philippines) and vital sources of rubber, tin and other raw materials needed for national defense production, and to place every possible economic barrier in the Japanese war machine's path.

The president's order directed Brigadier General Russell L. Maxwell, administrator of export control, in the interest of national defense, to:

1.—Prohibit the export of motor fuels and oils suitable for use in aircraft to any country except the British empire, western hemisphere countries, and unoccupied territories in other countries engaged in resisting aggression, which was interpreted here to include Soviet Russia and China.

2.—Prohibit the export of certain raw stocks from which aviation type fuel and lubricants might be derived, except to the same American and aggressor-resisting nations.

(That instruction was interpreted as embargoing the export of some grades of gasoline and oils which, while not of high octane rating by American standards, have proved usable in planes, sometimes with the addition of other ingredients.)

3.—Place all other gasoline, oil and petroleum products under export license control on a quota basis limiting issuance of licenses "to usual or pre-war quantities."

While the president's order did not specifically mention Japan it was so worded as to embargo exports of aviation oil and fuel to any country outside the western hemisphere except the British empire, Russia and China and was interpreted as another smashing economic blow designed to block any Japanese move against Singapore and the Dutch East Indies.

Japan's occupation of French Indo-China was designated recently by Sumner Welles, acting secretary of state, as a threat to American territory and to sources of supply of vital raw materials in the South Pacific.

China—to whom the United States is extending all possible moral, economic and financial aid—has long pleaded for an embargo on shipments of American oil used to fuel Japanese warplanes for the bombing of Chinese cities and towns and the Burma road, lifeline for China's war supplies.

SECRET AGENT X-9

WHAT'S GOING ON HERE? WHY ALL THE SHOW OF WEAPONS?
THE CAPTAIN HAS TURNED TRAITOR! EVEN NOW HE PLANS TO PERMIT THE AMERICAN TO ESCAPE!
LISTEN! THE CREW IS WISE TO YOUR BEING ON MY SIDE! YOUR LIFE WON'T BE WORTH A DISH OF ERSATZ KRAUT!
NEVER MIND ABOUT ME! GET IN THE ESCAPE-CHAMBER—QUICKLY!
WAIT A MINUTE—WHAT'S GOING TO HAPPEN TO "LADY," AFTER I GO?
SHE IS A MEMBER OF THE SECRET POLICE—SHE IS IN NO DANGER!
HERE THEY COME!
MEL GRAFF
FATALLY WOUNDED, THE CAPTAIN LEVELS HIS GUN AT "LADY"!
BE-BEFORE I DIE—SHE DIES—TOO!
X9!
LET GO OF ME!
SAVE YOUR BREATH! YOU'LL NEED IT IN THE NEXT FEW MINUTES!
SORRY TO TAKE YOU AWAY FROM YOUR PALS DOWN IN THAT SUB, "LADY"; BUT I CAN'T LET YOU OUT OF MY SIGHT TILL I FIND "HILARY"!
YOU'RE A FOOL TO THINK I'D HELP YOU, HERE IN MY OWN COUNTRY!
I APPRECIATE YOUR SAVING ME FROM BEING SHOT BY THAT CRAZY CAPTAIN, BUT—HEY, WHAT'S THAT LIGHT?
PATROL CRAFT, GUARDING THE SHORELINE AGAINST POSSIBLE RAIDERS!
I'M NOT LEAVING YOU HERE TO REJOIN YOUR FRIENDS IN THE SECRET POLICE! GET GOING!
SUDDENLY THE SWEEPING SPOTLIGHT FALLS FULL UPON THE TWO SWIMMERS!
THEY'RE MACHINE-GUNNING US FROM THE PATROL BOAT!
YOUR COUNTRYMEN, "LADY"—SHOOT FIRST AND LOOK AFTERWARD! DUCK UNDER!
PROCEED CAUTIOUSLY—IF THEY ARE ENEMY RAIDERS, THERE MAY BE A MINE TRAP! STAND READY TO FIRE ON COMMAND!
SMALL RUBBER PONTOON, CAPTAIN—BEARS THE MARKINGS OF ONE OF OUR OWN SUBMARINES!
WHAT?
WE SEEM TO HAVE DESTROYED TWO OF OUR UNDERSEA COMRADES—OR ELSE THIS IS SOME SHREWD ENEMY PLOT! THE INCIDENT MUST BE REPORTED AT ONCE!
WHILE THE PATROL BOAT IS REPORTING THE FINDING OF THE PONTOON, WE CAN SWIM TO SHORE—COME ON, "LADY"!
I WANT TO GET ONE DETAIL STRAIGHT, X-9!
I'M A MEMBER OF THE SECRET POLICE THIS IS MY COUNTRY AND THERE'S NO REASON WHY I SHOULD TRY TO HIDE!
NATURALLY! YOU WILL IDENTIFY YOURSELF, AS SOON AS YOU GET TO THE MILITARY AUTHORITIES!
A SHORT TIME LATER..
HERE WE ARE. THERE'S YOUR MILITARY WAITING ON THE DOCK!
I'LL GIVE YOU FIVE MINUTES TO GET AWAY—AFTER THAT, I'LL REPORT YOU! YOU'D DO THE SAME FOR ME, IF YOU COULD!
ENEMY FIFTH COLUMNISTS ARE IN THE VICINITY, POSING AS SUBMARINE SURVIVORS! ONE IS A WOMAN—THESE TWO ARE TO BE SHOT ON SIGHT!
OH-H-H!
OBVIOUSLY, THE AUTHORITIES IN THIS TOWN WOULD BE ON THE ALERT FOR SPIES—WHICH MAKES IT DIFFICULT FOR ME TO IDENTIFY MYSELF AS A MEMBER OF THE SECRET POLICE WITHOUT GETTING SHOT AT, FIRST.....
.. BUT I CAN AVOID THAT DANGER BY GOING DIRECT TO THE SECRET POLICE HEAD IN THIS TOWN. I HAVE HIS NAME AND ADDRESS! MY CLOTHES ARE DRY NOW!
SO ARE MINE, "LADY".. I'LL GO WITH YOU!
YOU'RE INSANE! DON'T YOU REALIZE YOU'RE IN A FOREIGN COUNTRY—IN DANGEROUS TIMES?
YES—I DID READ SOMETHING IN THE PAPER ABOUT A WAR!
IT'S STILL A CASE OF KIDNAPPING TO ME AND IF YOU WORK FOR THE GANG, IT'S JUST TOO BAD FOR YOU, "LADY"!
